Reds Accept Renewal Plan

MUNSAN, Korea, Oct. 24 (Wednesday) (AP). — The Communists today accepted the Panmunjom agreement for renewal of Korean armistice talks.

The Red and Allied five-man delegations agreed to meet at 11 a.m. tomorrow (6 p.m. PST Wednesday) at the new conference site of Panmunjom.

It will be the first meeting since Aug. 22. One day later the Reds broke off the discussions after charging an Allied plane had bombed and strafed the old conference site of Kaesong.

The Panmunjom agreement setting up new security rules was signed Monday by Allied and Red liaison officers and ratified a few hours later by the Allied truce delegation. The Reds delayed their approval 48 hours.

Their ratification came after Chinese Communist leader Mao Tze-tung had called on the United States to settle the Korean war by peaceful means.

U.S. Eighth Army headquarters said meanwhile that nearly 250 Allied and Communist jets tangled Tuesday in history's biggest jet battle. It swirled around a force of B-29 Superforts pressing home the second bombing attack in two days against new Communist air bases in northwest Korea.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's headquarters in Tokyo said today the Allied pilots destroyed or damaged 20 Communist jets.

The Far East air forces said three Superfort bombers and one Thunderjet fighter were shot down.

The Communist jet pilots roared out of Manchuria to defend a nearly-completed air field at Namsi near the Yalu River boundary. They pressed home the attack against the big Superforts and pursued them like hornets on the homeward flight.

Prince Slows Convertible To Crawl Through Throng

By T. A. MYERS
(Colonist Staff Reporter)

DUNCAN, Oct. 23.—Duncan is a happy town tonight. Princess Elizabeth stopped here today. Well, almost stopped.

The Princess and the Duke of Edinburgh were obviously touched by the sight of 10,000 people lining almost a mile of the Island Highway through the city.

Officials had announced the car would slow down as it passed through Duncan. It slowed down all right—to a crawl—and about three-quarters of the way through the surging crowd Prince Philip braked the car almost to a dead halt, then moved off again, slowly, in low gear.

That was good enough for Duncan, the town that earned its fight for a Royal stop right to the Princess in London.

Mayor J. C. Wragg, who led the move for a stop, and at one time threatened to block the road so Duncan children could see the Princess, said he was "very pleased" with the near-halt.

Special buses brought hundreds of school children from Youbou, Cowichan Lake, Honeymoon Bay and Mesachie Lake. Cubs, Scouts, Sea Scouts, Brownies, Girl Guides and C.G.I.T. members turned out in uniform.

Many business places closed early in the afternoon. Every one who could get away from home, store, office, woods or water flocked to the highway.

Officials had marked off 1,000 feet of the Island Highway between Trunk Road and the high school grounds. The unexpectedly large crowd spread out for hundreds of feet on both sides of the designated areas.

The Royal caravan swept into town with no fanfare at all. Eager crowds saw a convertible rolling down from the Cowichan River bridge. They cheered tentatively. Then they took a good look and shouted their heads off.

PRINCE SMILING

Driving the car with one hand, and leaning out to wave with the other, was smiling Prince Philip. Beside him, looking relaxed and genuinely happy, was Princess Elizabeth, with a brand-new hair-do. Both beamed and waved gaily at the thunderous crowd. Elizabeth was dressed in pink, Philip in a business suit and tweed top-coat, and wearing yellow gloves.

After they passed Duncan the Royal couple got a second greeting from about 500 residents of North Cowichan municipality. But that was the last of the day, except for a few isolated watchers along the way including a flag-waving horsewoman at Englishman's River.

The Royal caravan passed through Nanaimo about 5 p.m., but hardly anyone batted an eyelash. A few pedestrians gathered in little knots to wave laconically. There were no flags or bunting, no street-lining, no screaming crowds.

Nanaimo is saving its excitement for Friday, when the Royal couple will visit City Hall and the Arena before leaving aboard H.M.C.S. Crusader for the mainland.

Sticking to the Prince proved a tall order for Eileen Learoyd, who chugged valiantly behind the Royal party in her second-hand Austin. — (Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Heavy Guard Around Lodge

By Colonist Staff Reporter

QUALICUM BEACH, Oct. 23.—A thin red line guards a sleeping Princess and Prince tonight. Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip are sleeping tonight in beautiful Eagle Crest Lodge, a few miles from here and 106 miles north of Victoria.

All around the $500,000 lodge, at strategic points, are red-coated Mounties, members of a 61-man security force assigned to safeguard Their Highnesses.

Black and white squad cars prowl ceaselessly up and down the dark Island Highway in front of the Royal couple's holiday hideaway. Flashlights probe the inky, wooded grounds as red coats patrol back and forth on foot.

An eight-foot high barbed-wire fence surrounds the spacious grounds of Eagle Crest. At the front gate are armed guards in a sentry box. Three other guarded gates command the driveway leading into the lodge.

Not far away, at Sunset Inn, the main security force is quartered. The R.C.M.P. has taken over the entire inn. Commander of the force is Assistant Commissioner C. E. Rivett-Carnac, provincial chief of the R.C.M.P. He and his second-in-command are staying on the spot, sleeping and eating at Eagle Crest.

The barbed-wire fence at Eagle Crest runs only on three sides of the grounds. The fourth side is open to the water of the Strait of Georgia. But the lodge is hidden from the beach, and more Mounties are reported patroling the waterfront.

Truman Talks To Mossadegh

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP).—President Truman told Iran's Premier Mohammed Mossadegh today that it is virtually necessary to resume the flow of oil from Iran to the western world.

Mr. Truman conferred with Mossadegh for an hour and 45 minutes at a luncheon meeting at Blair House in an effort to break the deadlock over the Anglo-Iranian oil crisis.

State Secretary Dean Acheson and Defense Secretary Robert Lovett were among the top American officials at the luncheon talks.

Mainland Gambling Hit

VANCOUVER, Oct. 23 (CP).—Twenty persons were arrested late today in a mass raid which police said was aimed at rounding up Vancouver's top race horse gamblers.

All were charged with conspiracy.

All bookmaking here stopped shortly after the roundup started.

"Everybody just folded," one small bookmaker said. "The town just went dead."

Among those arrested were a cigar store proprietor, a fisherman, a waiter, a publisher and his wife, a news agent and a billiard parlor operator.

Prince Behind Wheel Sets Sizzling Pace

By EILEEN LEAROYD

Yesterday I rode on the tail of a comet.

A princely comet.

I was instructed to pick up the Royal procession as it passed through town at about 2.35 p.m. and stick to it until the Solarium was reached. I was to see if Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip would visit the hospital for crippled children on their way to Eagle Crest for a three-day holiday.

The Prince drove the Royal car himself, Princess Elizabeth in the seat beside him. There were no outriders ahead of the Prince, but several R.C.M.P. cars and two R.C.M.P. motorcyclists followed in the rear.

Sticking to the Prince was a tall order.

He was driving a supercharged Oldsmobile convertible worth $9,000.

I was driving a second-hand Austin which is probably worth less now than it was when it set out yesterday afternoon.

To be exact, the Prince's car was a Oldsmobile 98 called the "Rancher."

It got its name for a very good reason. It is a car Gene Autry would be proud to drive. Its conservative black exterior is deceiving.

COWHIDE AND SIX-GUNS

Inside, the car is upholstered in white cowhide. The floor is covered in black-and-white calf-skin. By the driver's seat, strictly for show, are two cowboy six-guns in holsters.

Until we passed Langford I did well, partly because I had sneaked into the procession so quickly that the R.C.M.P. "rearguard" evidently believed I was one of them, for they rode respectfully, protectingly, in the smoke from my exhaust pipe.

Until then the pace was not too killing. The Royal car not only observed all speed limits, but slowed down for knots of people collected all along the highway.

It crawled through Langford, where all the children from the school waved flags and shouted themselves hoarse.

After Langford it was every man for himself and just about this time I came under severe scrutiny from the R.C.M.P. Several times they came level with my window and peered suspiciously at me.

I had my foot down and no time to stare back. I wondered if they thought I, a loyal Royalist, had a bomb in the car.

After several miles of this, they pulled ahead of me.

HORRORS!

When we shot past the Malahat Lookout I was horrified to find I was doing 70. I kept my foot down and prayed I wouldn't explode. For the next 20 miles or so I managed to keep the Royal entourage in sight, but only just.

At this point my admiration for Prince Philip knew no bounds. I would decidedly back him if he ever took up automobile racing. On a road he didn't know, he must have at times been doing 80 miles an hour. Even the R.C.M.P. outriders had to give way several times and once, just once, my inspired Austin passed them.

Finally they drew out of sight altogether, but it is a matter of pride to me that I was informed I was only 1½ minutes behind them when I puffed into the crossroad that turns to the Solarium.

They did not stop to visit the Solarium, but the large crowd gathered at the crossroad said they had slowed down while passing them. Most of the crowd had been taken unaware by the sudden appearance of the procession. No sirens or police had announced their arrival.

Princess Elizabeth is the one I really admire most. It was exciting enough riding on its tail, but she was in the comet.

Police Fire Into Mobs In Egypt

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 23 (CP).—Police fired into unruly mobs in Alexandria and used tear gas to disperse other crowds which roamed the streets of Cairo today in anti-British demonstrations.

One demonstrator was reported killed in Alexandria, where police charged with clubs and then used their guns when a crowd of several thousand refused to break up.

Interior Minister Fuad Serag Ed-Din Pasha told reporters traitors and criminals had infiltrated into demonstrations planned as a day of mourning for Egyptian "martyrs." They were killed in a week of riots and clashes with Britons over the Suez Canal zone and the Sudan.

He said he had given orders to police to fire into demonstrations if necessary to break them up.

One column of rioters marched to the Russian embassy, cheering Russia and shouting for Soviet support against the Britons.

Fighting to keep their rights in the Suez Canal area and the Sudan under treaties Egypt has scrapped. British officials imposed drastic embargoes on rail and road traffic at the canal. They were trying to enforce an ultimatum for Egyptians to return to work unloading British supply ships.

Brief Session Predicted, Pensions Only on Agenda

A "quickie" session of the legislature is predicted by a number of government members who gathered in Victoria Monday to welcome Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip.

The special session, due to start at 10 a.m. Thursday, was called specifically to frame legislation for payment of pensions to British Columbians between 65 and 69 years of age. The pensions will be paid on an eligibility test basis.

Members are freely predicting that the session will complete its business in two days, leaving them free to return to their constituencies during the week-end. It is believed few members will quarrel with reported government opinion against payment of a $10 a month cost-of-living bonus to the 65-69 group.

B.C. now pays this bonus to eligible persons over 70 who receive the regular $40 a month pension. In addition the government pays 25 per cent of the monthly pension. On January 1 the federal government will assume the entire cost of $40 monthly pensions for everyone over 70.

NEW SCHEME

Under the new scheme, B.C. will pay 50 per cent of pensions for those in the 65-69 group. The senior government is responsible for the remaining half of the pensions.

Opinion being expressed among members is that the value of a long session at this time would be outweighed as far as the public purse is concerned by the expense of keeping members in Victoria over a protracted period.

Any demand that the session be extended to deal with hospital insurance or the Buttle Lake issue will probably come from the Opposition benches.

It is learned however, that a caucus of government members today may determine the actual course to be taken by the session.

Major-General Pearkes U.N. Assembly Delegate

By TOM GREEN
Colonist Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA, Oct. 23.—Major-General George R. Pearkes, V.C., was named today a member of the Canadian delegation to the sixth session of the General Assembly of the United Nations opening in Paris on Nov. 6.

The Progressive Conservative member for Nanaimo, and veteran of two world wars, who was first elected to the House of Commons in 1945, has been selected as parliamentary adviser, because of his knowledge and experience.

General Pearkes, who will be accompanied by Mrs. Pearkes, will sail from Montreal on Friday aboard the Empress of France and is the only member of his party on the delegation. The conference faces a heavy agenda which will necessitate General Pearkes' attendance until early in the new year.

External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson is heading the delegation. It is possible that representatives from the C.C.F., and the Social Credit party may be named to the delegation later.

Prime Minister Asks U.N. Aid

OTTAWA, Oct. 23 (CP). — Prime Minister St. Laurent said today that support of the United Nations, the Commonwealth and the North Atlantic Treaty organization is the best and perhaps "the only way" of avoiding another world war.

In a statement on the eve of the sixth anniversary of the signing of the U.N. charter, the Prime Minister said the task which lies ahead for the free nations "is enormous."

"Poverty, sickness and ignorance have always been a breeding ground for mistrust and war; and it is regrettable that the Cominform countries have refused to participate in this work of building a better world."

Canada, together with other free countries, would however, continue to support U.N. activities.

Medical Officer New to Admiral

Rear Admiral W. B. Creery, Flag Officer Pacific Coast, was unable to shed any light on the current mystery surrounding H.M.C.S. Cayuga's medical officer. (See stories on Page 3.)

The F.O.P.C. recently returned from a tour of the three Canadian destroyers serving in the Far East.

"I met with all the men aboard the ships, but the name 'Cyr' doesn't come to mind," Rear Admiral Creery remarked.

It appeared that the medical officer in question had been questioned aboard the Cayuga by commanding officer Cmdr. James Plomer, local naval communication authorities said last night there had been no word of the matter received yet from the destroyer.

Adventurers Sailing for China Seas To Seek Captain Kidd's Buried Loot

GOSPORT, Hampshire, England, Oct. 23 (CP).—One thousand cans of corned beef, 3,000 eggs and 12 gallons of rum will provide nourishment for a group of youthful adventurers who sail for the south China seas this week in search of buried treasure.

The stores have been loaded aboard the auxiliary schooner Lamorna and the 12-man party, including three Canadians in their 20's, plans to set sail tomorrow from this harbor town near Portsmouth.

The objective of what must surely be one of the most quixotic expeditions of modern times is a treasure hoard said to be worth £1,200,000. Documents in possession of the party indicate the gold is buried in a cave on an island about 200 miles south of Siam.

Legend says the treasure was buried there by Capt. William Kidd, 17th century pirate who was hanged in 1701. Part of Capt. Kidd's plunder was recovered long ago off Long Island, N.Y.

The Canadians in the party are Geoffrey Taylor, of Outremont, Que.; John Fry, of Westmount, Que.; and Ian Rogers, of Ottawa.

Other members include a Scotsman, a Welshman, a New Zealander, two Londoners, a German engineer, an Italian and Leslie Coop of Bedford, England, said to be the only one with sea experience.

The Lamorna, loaned by a Greek sea captain, is expected to make the trip through the Mediterranean, the Suez Canal and on to Singapore in about six months.

The island in the south China seas, uninhabited, is said to be five miles long and three miles wide.

The Lamorna, appropriately, flies a white flag with skull and crossbones imposed in blue. Crew members have adopted the symbol as a cap-badge.

The Canadians said the party "just grew up" by accident. Fry said he happened to hear about the expedition in Paris. Then he met Rogers in London's Hyde Park and the same day became acquainted with Taylor in Piccadilly.

"We decided we might as well take a chance on it," Fry said. "Rogers and Taylor both canceled their return passages to Canada."

If the adventurers strike it rich, Mrs. Elizabeth Dick, of Eastbourne, Sussex, will share in the proceeds. She has loaned the party parchment maps inherited from a collector of Kidd relics.

Observance One Day Late

Remembrance Day will be observed Monday, Nov. 12, according to Provincial Secretary W. T. Straith.

The holiday is proclaimed by the government under the Interpretation Act and the Factories Act.

What happened to Lady Franklin's silver chalice?

The mystery of her explorer husband's disappearance into the Arctic was solved at last, but nobody seems to know what happened to the gift she presented to the church of St. Stephen's, South Saanich, in his memory.

With two ships, the Erebus and Terror, 129 officers and men and every conceivable device then known to science, Sir John sailed from Greenhithe on May 19, 1845. He hoped to find the "Northwest Passage."

The party was last seen on July 26, 1845, at the entrance to Lancaster Sound. Nothing was heard from them for 14 years.

Several search parties found traces of Franklin's winter camp on Beechey Island and learned from Eskimos that white men had been seen dragging a boat southward along the west shore of King William's Island.

A party which went down the Mackenzie River in canoes learned that men from the two ships had tried to reach the Hudson's Bay settlement by the Fish River route.

The government was content to leave the matter there and write off Sir John as missing permanently. But Lady Franklin was not.

She combed the world for clues, and her tragic quest brought her to Victoria.

In Saanich then lived a number of sealers and whalers who spent part of the year farming. Lady Franklin went among them asking if they had seen any trace of the expedition.

Some of these mariners worshipped in what is now St. Stephen's. Consecrated in 1862, the church was in use for some time before that.

Lady Franklin organized another attempt to find her husband. Capt. McClintock in the Fox left Aberdeen in 1857. In 1857 he learned the fate of the expedition.

Skeletons on King William's Island and a diary found in a cairn at Point Victory showed that the expedition had found McClintock Channel (previously unknown) and then ran into impenetrable ice.

Franklin had died on June 11, 1847. Survivors deserted the ships April 22, 1848, and set out across the ice and snow for Back's Fish River. They never arrived. Franklin was credited with discovering the Northwest Passage.

Lady Franklin presented the chalice in her husband's memory to St. Stephen's not long after that. Richard Nimmo, Saanichton pioneer, remembers seeing it in July 1901, and again when he was married in July, 1902.

Mrs. Harry Evans, Mount Newton Crossroad, a daughter of the pioneer William Thompson family, saw it, but doesn't remember when. Several of the clergy who have been vicars of St. Stephen's have no knowledge of it whatsoever.

Capt. William Gregory, 800 St. Charles, who was born in the neighborhood but left there as a boy, can't remember it at all.

Was it lent to another church and never returned? Mrs. R. D. Gilchrist, 564 St. Charles Street, a distant relation of the late Lady Franklin, would like to know.

A few feather-heads are nattering because the Princess didn't smile for them. Annoyed at this attitude, radio announcer Al Collins ran a little test. He smiled continuously all the way from The Colonist to his home in Fairfield—two miles, 20 minutes.

"My jaw aches so much I can hardly talk," reported Smilin' Al when the noble experiment was over.

Dies in Stockholm

PRINCE CARL

Uncle of King Gustaf VI of Sweden, died of a heart attack early yesterday in Stockholm. He was 80. Prince Carl was a brother of the late King Gustav V. He was instrumental in founding the International Red Cross in 1938. In 1945, he was succeeded as president of the Swedish Red Cross a post he had held since 1906 by his nephew, Count Folke Bernadotte, who was slain while trying to mediate the Palestine war.

Arson Charges

LONG BRANCH, N.J., Oct. 23 (AP)—Three volunteer firemen were held on $3,500 bail each today on arson charges in connection with a $60,000 blaze which damaged a 25-room home Sunday night. Police said the men allegedly went to the house after a drinking party, and attendance at "weidown" celebration in honor of purchase of a new fire engine.

Increase to 24 Cents Per Quart Looms For Vancouver as Milk Board Meets

VANCOUVER, Oct. 23 (CP)—An increase in the price of milk to 24 cents a quart here loomed today as Vancouver distributors submitted evidence at a stormy session of the B.C. Milk Board.

Request for a 2.3-cent increase in distributors' prices appeared likely. Though dairymen made no specific application, an exhibit was filed purporting to show an additional 2.3 cents was required to provide distributors with a net profit of one-third of a cent a quart.

The Milk Board has been informed that "Canada Safeway, Limited, will build a $216,000 processing plant in Vancouver to supply milk to stores at two to three cents less than the price for home delivery if the milk board fixes consumer prices for milk sold in stores at less than the delivery price.

J. A. McAuley, K.C., counsel for Safeway, said all Vancouver stores would benefit with a store differential.

Earlier, a spokesman for the company claimed that an "unprecedented amount" of eastern canned milk was being shipped into Vancouver.

W. J. Kraft, British Columbia Safeway division manager, told the B.C. Milk Board yesterday that the reason is the three cent increase in home delivery price for fresh milk allowed by the board last week.

Labor Urges Milk Subsidy

VANCOUVER, Oct. 23 (CP)—A provincial government subsidy for the milk industry was asked tonight by the Vancouver Labor Council.

The resolution also asked tighter control over the milk industry.

"The rising cost of milk is putting it out of bounds," said Jim Bury, secretary.

"Consumption of milk has dropped to three-fifths of a pint per day per person. It should be at least one quart."

He said a subsidy on milk was more important than a subsidy on gold.

WINNIPEG, Oct. 23 (CP)—A uniform system of road marking and signs across Canada in the interests of traffic safety will be proposed by delegates from the Winnipeg Chamber of Commerce at the annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce which begins in Quebec City, Oct. 30.

City Opposes Signboard At Corner

Victoria City will ask Seaboard Advertising Co. for its co-operation in not placing a signboard at the privately-owned southwest corner of Fort Street and Foul Bay Road.

Council endorsed sending of a letter to the firm after Mayor Percy George said he felt the case was extreme. He said he had visited the proposed site of the signboard and found several signs already posted at other corners.

In addition, a petition against erection of the billboard was received from Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Edwards, 1980 Foul Bay Road. The petition was signed by about 60 other residents of the area concerned.

If you often feel "logy" on getting up—if tired, sluggish feelings drag you down all through the day—an inactive liver with resulting habitual constipation may be the cause. Millions of people who suffer this way find that Kruschen Salts help bring relief from these symptoms. The reason Kruschen is so widely recommended is because it contains active principles similar to those of world-famous Mineral Springs. Kruschen acts two ways—laxative and diuretic. It promotes healthy action of the bowels and the kidneys. You just take a little Kruschen in hot water or your morning beverage, when needed. Try it and you'll rely on it—as so many do—to help you to new pep and zest, by aiding healthy, natural elimination of the body wastes through bowels and kidneys.

Navy, Embarrassed But Amused, Possible Victim of Medical Hoax

OTTAWA, Oct. 23 (CP).—An embarrassed but amused navy headquarters wondered today whether it is the victim of one of the most spectacular hoaxes the Canadian forces have known in recent years.

Both the navy and the R.C.M.P. are trying to find out the truth in an investigation proceeding in Canada and the United States and aboard the R.C.N. destroyer Cayuga, one of three Canada has in Pacific waters for the Korean war.

Aboard the Cayuga, under suspension, is the medical officer listed in naval records as Surgeon Lieutenant Joseph Cyr of Edmundston, N.B. He is under investigation on the possibility that he isn't Cyr and isn't a doctor even though he has won acclaim for several major operations on South Korean soldiers.

He has been under questioning there by his skipper, Cmdr. James Plomer of Saint John, N.B., and is under orders to perform no further medical duties pending completion of the inquiry. Chances are he will be flown home soon to expedite the inquiry.

The navy throughout the day maintained an official position that the man is innocent until proved guilty. If evidence does develop that he entered the service in March under false pretences, he would be liable to court martial and discharge from the service and might well face civilian charges of acting as a doctor without a licence.

Real Doctor Cyr Has Mystery Clue

GRAND FALLS, N.B., Oct. 23 (CP).—Dr. Joseph C. Cyr expressed opinion today that a man under suspension on the destroyer H.M.C.S. Cayuga off Korea is an acquaintance whom Dr. Cyr knew as Cecil B. Hamann.

The surgeon-lieutenant enlisted as Dr. Joseph C. Cyr, of Edmunston, N.B., but the Grand Falls Dr. Cyr, aged 28, is the only doctor of that name in New Brunswick. He has said that some of his medical credentials have been missing since last November.

In an interview today, Dr. Cyr said the man he remembered would "have nerve enough" to perform operations under difficult circumstances.

He was introduced to the husky "Dr. Hamann" in July, 1950, at Martin farm of the Brotherhood of Christian Instruction here, where the man was doing a novitiate as "Father John." The last time he saw Hamann was Feb. 2 of this year. He then accompanied him to Quebec where "Brother John" took vows.

Early this year Father John went to Notre Dame seminary at Alfred, Maine, and then disappeared.

Dr. Cyr described the 200-pound-plus man as "very charming," with a "dynamic personality." He had introduced himself as a specialist who formerly held high surgical posts at the Boston, Mass., infirmary. But the "specialist" said he was too busy when Dr. Cyr once asked him to assist in an appendectomy. He refused to be photographed or to "talk shop."

PERSISTENT CALLER

Dr. Cyr said that when he missed his diplomas and other identification documents Hamann had been a persistent caller. Later Dr. Cyr visited the Boston infirmary, where he was told the institution knew no such specialist as Dr. Cecil B. Hamann. One person, however, said that Father John's description fitted a former orderly at the infirmary.

Records at the farm of the Brothers of Christian Instruction—a training place for teachers of the order—show that the man arrived there about a year ago and was known in his novitiate under the brotherhood name of brother John Payne. He had asked for a transfer from Notre Dame seminary at Alfred, Maine, also operated by the brotherhood. It was learned that he introduced himself as a former Protestant who had been converted to Roman catholicism.

According to information here, "Brother John" ended his religious career after he was photographed when he took holy vows last February. A former farm student was said to have identified the picture as that of a man he had known in the United States as "Dr. French." Meanwhile "Brother John" was transferred back to Alfred and then went to Boston for a conference with religious officials. He met them in a hotel room, asked to be excused for a moment and disappeared, according to reports here.

British Malayan Plan May Beat Reds in Year

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

By A. M. ROBERT, JR.
Associated Press News Analyst

Britain is hopeful that her campaign for containing the Communist guerrillas in Malaya will prove successful within a year.

But she has been forced to adopt a tough program to get started on the road where large army contingents have failed.

She is now conducting a resettlement and land "sterilization" project which involves forceful removal, if necessary, of residents of areas near the jungle who, because of either sympathy or terror, have been aiding the Communists.

Many of these people were among those who fled the cities of Malaya during the Japanese occupation, preferring to eke out a living on the land of ourtoss areas. Their farms, scattered beyond the limits of police protection, have been the prey and the support of the Communist bands who issue intermittently from the jungles in raiding parties to keep the economy of Malaya upset. Not a few of the squatters, in a land where many people seek any sort of change from their squalid economic condition, have been active Communist supporters.

HERDED BACK

Now they are being herded back nearer to the cities, and the result is resettlement camps, families torn from their land without, as yet, adequate compensation.

J. A. C. Morley, deputy economic secretary to the Federated Government of the nine states of Malaya, reports, however, that the resettlement movement is not totally inconsiderate.

Morley insists that in the long run the resettled people will be better off. School and health projects are being pushed within the limits of the government's ability, and if the campaign does produce containment of the Communists, economic conditions will be generally better for all of the 2,000,000 Malayans, 2,000,000 Chinese and 1,000,000 Indians who compose the population.

Amps Visit Impossible

WINNIPEG, Oct. 23 (CP).—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh will not be able to re-visit Winnipeg to see the veterans at Deer Lodge Hospital and Academy Road in spite of an appeal from the War Amputations Association.

H. Charles, director of the Manitoba branch of the association, received a message yesterday. It stated:

"Their Royal Highnesses are deeply sorry that it will not be possible for them to arrange to visit Deer Lodge Hospital and the Academy Road Veterans' Home on their return trip as this could not be done without cancelling engagements which have now been arranged for a long time."

Chief Canadian Bottleneck

U.K. Jet Engines Sought

OTTAWA, Oct. 23 (CP).—Canada is negotiating with United Kingdom manufacturers in an attempt to overcome a critical shortage of jet engines—chief bottleneck in the development of a 600-mile-an-hour jet aircraft production program.

Discussions will be held among defense production officials and the makers of the British Rolls-Royce jet engine within the next few days.

The plan is to bring British technicians to Canada to set up production of the engine at the Avro plant at Malton, Ont.

The British jet would be fitted into the 500 T-33 jet trainer aircraft which Canadair Ltd., Montreal, is producing for the R.C.A.F.

The T-33, a two-seater modification of the United States "Shooting Star" jet, will be used by the R.C.A.F. to bridge the training gap between the piston-engine Harvard and the high-speed Sabre and CF-100 jet fighters.

It Is Still a Sound Objective

ON this, the sixth anniversary of the signing of the Charter of the United Nations at San Francisco, it is worth while to revert for a moment to what the signatories pledged in the preamble, which read in part as follows:

"We, the Peoples of the United Nations, determined to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war, which twice in our lifetime has brought untold sorrow to mankind, and to reaffirm faith in fundamental human rights, in the dignity and worth of the human person, in the equal rights of men and women and of nations large and small, and to establish conditions under which justice and respect for the obligations arising from treaties and other sources of international law can be maintained, and to promote social progress and better standards of life in larger freedom, and for these ends to practice tolerance and live together in peace and security . . . have resolved to combine our efforts to accomplish these aims."

That was the main pledge. How well or how ill the signatory nations have kept it is now a matter of record, as one day it will be the subject of history. Certainly the Western nations have not left much undone in their attempts to bring about the basic conditions from which tolerance and good will might one day come into play between nation and nation around the world. Today, on the anniversary of a truly peoples' charter, can Russia say as much?

B.C.'s Pension Problems

THE special session of the British Columbia legislature on new pensions legislation, opening tomorrow afternoon, is likely to be a very difficult one for the government. It could scarcely be otherwise for the federal plan of universal pensions presents in this province problems more complex than those of the other nine. For many years British Columbia has treated its aged citizens more liberally than those living in other parts of Canada; and now that generosity has boomeranged, on the government and on the pensioners themselves.

It has long been the wish of this province that the unpopular means test on which the present federal-provincial pension is based should be discarded. So far as the basic $40 pension is concerned, that will be done on Jan. 1, when pensions for persons of 70 years and over will become a Dominion responsibility, but it seems virtually impossible for this province to abolish the means test entirely. The reason is that British Columbia grants a $10 bonus and other benefits to its pensioners, as a strictly provincial, arrangement which cannot be transferred to the Dominion when the universal pension comes into effect.

It would be a cruel blow to the needy aged if abolition of the means test were to have the effect of wiping out the bonus. On the other hand, since rich and poor alike will be eligible to the basic pension, it would be wholly unreasonable for the province to tax the people to pay the cost of bonuses, hospital premiums and the expenses of sickness for those who do not need public help. Somewhat the same considerations apply to the question of extra assistance for the new 65-69 age group, whose pensions will be financed half-and-half by the Dominion and provincial governments, on a means test basis.

Those in the 70-and-over group who do not seek additional help will escape any inquisition into their financial status after Jan. 1. In fairness to the taxpayers, however, it looks as if those seeking a bonus (if one is to be provided by the province) will have to submit to a means test as heretofore. In that event the administrative machinery responsible for eligibility tests in the other age group would have to be enlarged, at British Columbia's expense.

The situation thus created in this province by the federal scheme is most unfortunate, but it is difficult to see how it could have been avoided without hardship to the aged. Whatever course the government adopts in the bill to be presented this week, there is likely to be some heartburning and complaint. In considering the measures presented, however, the House and the public should be mindful of the complex conditions they are devised to meet.

A Fateful Election

VANCOUVER Island will still be engrossed with the presence of its Royal guests, but many Canadian eyes will be turned tomorrow to the homeland from which came the Princess and her sailor consort. An eventful election, one that Winston Churchill calls the most momentous of his time, will take place in Great Britain. Most of the world, indeed, will be watching the result closely, for the influence of that North Sea isle is a potent one and the shape of its government a matter of external importance as well.

For Britons, preoccupied by the rigors of economic stress and a rearmament program that is an effort perhaps beyond this country's real comprehension, the election is a fateful occurrence. No matter who wins the road ahead is grim, but Britons have to decide whether to plunge deeper into socialism or call a halt to a program which many feel has failed of its purpose and gives no promise of lifting Britain from the postwar gloom and austerity that have robbed the nation of much of its grandeur and former world prestige.

Victory for them would not mean that the Conservatives could do much to alter the material picture, but the tone and temper of both events and people would undoubtedly be different thereafter. Just as so often what is said depends on how it is said, so the administration of a welfare and thus regimented state depends on the manner of the management.

It is for the British people to decide and that they will do tomorrow. Apparently it is a toss-up who will win, for while the odds are reported to be on the Conservative side no one is too sure that this will be reflected at the polls. One way or the other the result will be yet another vital turning point in the long history of Great Britain, not without its deep imprint on the destiny of other countries across the world. It will mean a lot to posterity tomorrow whether Churchill or Attlee is returned to power.

On the Record

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

THE great political reality which must be recognized if we are to have peace in Korea is that the revolution of Asia for the Asiatics is only accelerated and intensified by western armed intervention. This movement spearheaded the Japanese drive for Asiatic hegemony, and was not stopped by the defeat of Japan. The leadership merely passed into the hands of revolutionary China.

The virtue of the Soviets, from the viewpoint of exercising political intelligence, was to recognize the inevitability of a rising—brewing since the First World War—to back a candidate to lead it, the Chinese revolutionary forces, and to put itself squarely behind the revolt.

The assets that exist in Asia against the success of Russo-Chinese policy is the fear and hatred of Communism and Communist methods, suspicion of Russian revolutionary imperialism, and the possible emergence of a third force strongly committed to Asiatic independence, of either Russian or western leadership.

* * *

Jawaharlal Nehru is perpetually attacked for refusing to join our side. The attacks will not have the slightest effect, especially after the lesson of Korea. India, like Korea, is a peninsula with a long frontier on China, and she cannot be defended by the West except by making herself a battleground.

But, politically speaking, Nehru (who certainly knows the mind of Asia rather better than any Westerner is likely to) knows that in the present fervor of Asiatic national revolutionism no country that appears as a western stooge can exercise influence or be safe from its neighbors. Intelligent Japanese know the same, as do Indonesians and Filipinos. America cannot defeat the Asiatic revolution by disregarding that it exists and that its basic impulse is to achieve independence of alien rule.

If this is realized, it follows that any attempt to attach Korea to a Western bloc cannot bring peace and can only exacerbate hostility toward the West in all Asia. Peace can only conceivably be made in Korea on the basis of the neutralization of the country. And this, it seems to me, is the proposition that should be made. For, in a military stalemate, armistices and ceasefires cannot lead to anything unless they are accompanied by clear political offers.

* * *

The principle that Korea should be united must stand fast. The principle that both North and South Koreans must lay down their arms and the people be allowed to choose the form of government they desire must be reiterated. But it must be recognized that no great powers with direct frontiers on Korea, as both China and Russia have, will permit a Western protectorate to be established in Korea if they can prevent it. And Russia and China are proving that they can prevent it.

Both sides of the frontier should be permanently defortified and an international guard set up, composed entirely of troops from Asian nations which have supported Korean independence but refused to participate in the war on either side.

When this has been agreed Chinese troops would withdraw into Manchuria, and Western troops to a defined area in the south. And when it has been accomplished, Western troops should withdraw after the permanent neutralization of Korea has been ratified in the U.N. Security Council and by treaties between the United States, the new Korean Government, Russia and Red China.

* * *

Perhaps the Communist powers will not accept such a peace. But the offer would win support from all the non-communist powers in Asia, and to reject it would put the Communist powers in a bad political hole. Perhaps, having accepted it, they would not keep their engagements. But they could not break them on the ground of opposing "Western imperialism." Perhaps, even in a free election, Korea would vote Communist. We couldn't help that. We can only hope to prevent their being another armed Communist nation.

Britain's Unchanged Electoral System

By IAIN COLQUHOUN, of the London News Chronicle

TO some who view it from overseas, Britain's electoral system must seem to lack finesse. It does not make nice adjustments and go out of its way to see that every shade of political opinion is represented in parliament in strict proportion to its strength in the country.

The method of voting at a general election does indeed lack all refinements like second ballots, party lists, alternative votes or any form of proportional representation. There can be only one successful candidate for each constituency, elected on a simple majority of votes.

This produces curious results. In general, it exaggerates the success of the most successful party. Conceivably it could lead to absurdity. Suppose that the candidates of one party won by very small majorities in every constituency. Then parliament would consist entirely of members of that party. Such a situation is in practice out of the question. But lesser exaggerations do take place. In the general election of 1935 the Conservatives polled only 53 per cent of the votes, but they got 70 per cent of the seats. Labor won 38 per cent of the votes but got only 25 per cent of the seats.

* * *

In 1945, when Labor was winning, the position was reversed. Conservatives, with 40 per cent of the votes had only 33 per cent of the seats. Labor with only 48 per cent of the votes got 61 per cent of the seats in parliament. Such a state of affairs, indeed, is normal in Britain. The parliament dissolved on October 5 has been very exceptional. In the election of 1950 the votes divided at exactly the point where the system—which tends to magnify, in the House, any superiority of votes in the country—gave no special advantage to either of the largest parties.

The system is also unfavorable to minority parties. In the 1950 election the Liberals had only one member returned for every 290 votes they polled. The other parties got one member in for every 40,000 votes. With 9.4 per cent of the votes the Liberals got only 1.4 per cent of the seats.

The system was not deliberately created to produce such results. They are merely the consequences of leaving traditional methods undisturbed. In the early parliaments the knight of the shire or the burgess was elected to represent the citizens of his district, and that was that. It was not contemplated that he would be the member of a national party with a national program or that the number of that party's supporters in the House of Commons might give it the right to form the King's government. All this came later, but the system of having one representative for each district has never been changed.

* * *

It has not been changed for three reasons. In the first place, only the large parties would ever have the power to alter it. Since it favors them, they are reluctant to make any modification. Another reason is that people have on the whole cherished the local characteristics of their system. A member of parliament, it is felt, should, ideally, be the representative of a natural local community, with its own particular interests and contribution to the nation's life and counsels—rather than of an artificial and almost necessarily much larger electoral unit devised mainly to ensure a more exact representation of several different parties. It is true that the districts are made roughly equal (about 57,000 people in each) in the interests of fairness, but the principle of the natural community is not forgotten.

* * *

These reasons, however, are not the most important. What preserves the system is the fact that it provides strong governments. By giving to a successful party a number of seats in the House of Commons greater than the proportion of the total votes it has won, Britain's electoral procedure makes it possible for a prime minister to form a government without a coalition. Coalitions are not liked in Britain and are very rare in time of peace.

If the United Kingdom elector does not like his government, he throws it out. But while it is in office he likes it to be able to pursue its policy free from the necessity of political compromise and from the instability of having too small a majority. This latter feeling explains why a general election is taking place just now.

To an Early Grave

(From The Timmins Press)

WE'VE been hearing for years that many of our top business executives kill themselves with the strain of overwork. Perhaps most of us have felt this situation was just an unfortunate accompaniment of modern living—but which nothing could be done.

But now comes a suggestion that this tense pace is neither normal nor necessary, even for today. A writer quotes psychiatrists as declaring it is an abnormal neurotic drive rather than brains, energy or ambition that leads a man to punish himself with work and possibly "succeed himself to death."

Business leaders can amass plenty of evidence to support their contention that their problems and burdens have mounted to dizzy heights in the last few decades, and that their own tensions have risen in proportion. The doctors, however, decline to admit that most executives have to work as hard as they often do.

They insist that the men who let work dominate their lives are out of balance in some way. They say some have a distorted idea of life that allows no place for fun and rest. Some men simply don't know how to use free time and tie themselves to work to avoid boredom. Others are ridden by fears of failure, and competing executives, of insecurity they often can't define. So these high-voltage individuals focus so hard on making a living that they forget about making a life.

They deprive their families of badly-needed companionship and guardianship. They lose the matchless riches of leisure, the fulfilment of spiritual wants that cannot be satisfied in the grubbing world of work. And into the bargain, they kill themselves. In so doing they rob business of brain power, training and leadership.

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

A BARBER shop might be said to have a dual personality. While you are sitting waiting for your turn in one of the barber chairs, it is the most irritating place in the world. The minute you get into the chair, it is one of the pleasantest, drowsiest, most becalming places imaginable.

Irritating is hardly the right word. It is embittering, humiliating. Never are you made so aware of the silliness, the fiddle-faddle of human nature as in a barber shop. There you sit, waiting your turn, and eyeing your predecessors in the chair, to see which is nearest completion. But they are never nearing completion; just about the time you have edged forward, ready to jump up as you occupy his chair, the character you thought was about done decides he wants a little more off the top. Or else the vain and stupid guy, whom nothing the barber can do will improve, lies back for a face massage. Or even interrupts the business life of the country, at this absurd moment, to have a shampoo.

There they sit, the whole row of them, each with his quiet, patient barber busily whittling away, every one of them half asleep, and waking up only long enough to ask for something more. You rattle papers, twitch about in your seat, scrape your feet, cough. You may even start to mutter and moan a little.

Just about the time you feel you can't stand it any longer, a chair becomes vacant, you leap up and occupy it. You are tucked in. You gaze modestly, but not without interest, at yourself in the big mirror, the barber gets your instructions. The soothing shears begin. A lovely peace invades you. You drowse. You waken only to add some little trifle of additional advice. You decide to have a facial . . .

And a shampoo.

GROWING PAINS

Sir,—I would like to know why it is that our city council seems to be pursuing a course that very soon will result in our city proper losing everything that makes it unique and attractive, such as historic buildings. No one argues against the idea of modernizing interiors to make them more "functional"; such as turning Prince Robert House into a [illegible] the relaxation for our older citizens, or a place for tired shoppers, young mothers, etc., by paying a "parking" fee to have a brief respite from shopping, etc. Call it Victoria House if you like.

No one finds fault with the enlarging of the library, I'm sure, but the austere pile of concrete is anything but attractive. To do away with the market is to sacrifice something that is practically a tradition in Victoria to say nothing of the loss of income to many of our already too-burdened farmers.

Victoria is rapidly losing its identity, those things that speak of a more leisurely age and that tourists find so attractive.

BILL SHAW.

460 Richmond Avenue, Victoria, B.C.

ANCIENT LINEAGE

Sir,—Having just been reading an article in Sunday's Colonist re the 1,000 years of our Royal House, it would seem that the following would be of interest. I quote from P. W. Thompson, M.A.: "King Lucius (about 150 A.D.) was the great-great-grandfather of Constantine the Great. Lucius' own grandfather—Cyllinus—was, through Howell the Great, an ancestor of King George VI. His Majesty has come the throne of Lucius and also the title which King Lucius first bore as being the sovereign who first induced his whole people to become Christians, namely, our 'most religious king.'"

Incidentally, Cyllinus was the son of Caradoc (Caractacus to the Romans) an early King of Gwent (Monmouth, Glamorgan, Hereford and Gloucester certainly, and possibly other counties).

Also it is well known that both our King and his Queen are able to trace their ancestry back through long lines of Scottish and Irish kings to the 6th century, B.C., and even much earlier. Once I heard it stated that the Mikado had the longest ancestry, but I doubt if it is possible to match the antiquity of the British Royal Family.

IN MIDDLE EAST

Sir,—The following excerpt from a letter I have received, dated Teheran, Oct. 4, gives a non-Persian business man's views on the existing situation in the Shah's capital:

"Conditions here are going from bad to worse. During the last few months we have not had a really stable government and consequently the laws and regulations have been chopped and changed so much that nobody knows where he stands. The oil dispute has not improved matters, but everybody expects it to be smoothed out in time, although they have no idea where it will end. This outlook is probably due to the fact that during previous troubles this country has always managed to squeeze out of her political and economic problems. 'Business is at a standstill, but the rest of the country goes on quite normally. Under the present circumstances, I think that the government can carry on for another five or six months. After that the economic and financial pinch will really be felt. The people will really begin to feel the growing shortages in certain commodities during the winter, but they have been so used to going without in one way or another, that I suppose they will manage pretty well as usual."

If the East runs true to form the oil trouble may, indeed, suddenly end. "This country has always managed to squeeze out of her political and economic problems." Nothing could more aptly express the formlessness of nearly everything in Iran. As Victoria Sackville-West put it, "Resignation is necessary here if one does not wish to live in a state of perpetual fury."

Opinion Split on Liquor-Profit Subsidy for Milk

By EILEEN LEAROYD

Opinion is sharply divided over the question of whether the provincial government should subsidize milk prices to farmers out of its liquor profits.

A motion to this effect was passed at a recent meeting of Victoria District Trades and Labor Council.

"Dreadful idea," said Mrs. N. Phillips, president of the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

"Nothing from liquor profits should be used for anything. Milk is a necessity and liquor isn't and if we lowered prices that way it would look as if we were encouraging the liquor trade."

Rev. A. E. Whitehouse of First United Church thought the idea of subsidizing milk from liquor profits to be "very appropriate."

"I don't mean to endorse the selling of liquor," he stressed, "but as long as it is sold, then the idea of benefiting from the profits in that way seems an excellent idea."

EMOTIONAL ASPECT

Rev. William Hills of St. George's, Cadboro Bay, said he did not favor the plan. "I do not believe in one industry handing over its profits to support the losses of another.

"Besides, the whole thing has an emotional appeal about it that I don't like on a question so serious."

R. H. Green, chairman of the [illegible] subsidizing milk was good, but said he didn't know whether it should be subsidized from liquor profits.

Colin Graham, curator of the new Art Centre, said he was amazed to see the price of milk here after living in the United [illegible] was 20 and 21 cents a quart.

"It is so important for children to have milk that I believe almost anything should be done to drive its price down."

F. B. Nicholson, real estate salesman, said: "It is an excellent idea. We have such high taxes on liquor we might as well get a little of it back."

Two government officials queried laughed. "Do you really expect us to make a statement? We can think of better ways of committing suicide."

Mrs. W. W. McGill thought it was morally wrong to use liquor profits [illegible] milk production instead.

Alfred Cullen of the Parent-Teacher Association said "yes" to the idea with one qualification.

"It would be fine," he said, "providing it wouldn't interfere [illegible] from liquor profits for work on schools and similar projects."

Victorian Order of Nurses superintendent Miss Marjorie Baird would not comment on liquor profits, but laid the trouble at the door of the distributors. She thought people were paying for fancy trucks.

"Milk is still the best buy, however," she said. She added that she personally uses powdered milk, mixed with water and a little cream. That cost comes to only 33 cents for four quarts.

Contrasting Personalities Face British Electorate

LONDON, Oct. 23 (AP)— Pet, modules and stout. The whole [illegible] sonalities of two men so different [illegible] community is in a flutter as they might be living in separate [illegible] Churchill, fighting to recover the planets, dominate the British political power which his Conservative party lost to Socialism in 1945, comes to most any town in Britain.

The thing is a success before it starts.

Just to see him thrills the community, the old V for victory sign — two spread fingers upraised — is a signal for cheering. When he waves the inevitable cigar all seems to be well with the world, and old England has a rightful place in it.

Churchill supplies more than his share of the fireworks of the campaign. However, he is not always erupting deathless phrases like "blood, sweat and tears." Often he is deliberate and ponderous, his mind seeking phrases slowly.

But he can be counted on in any half hour to rise once or twice to the rolling, thundering and picturesque oratory which the world has come to expect of him.

Churchill practises many of the orthodox politician tricks. He compliments the gardeners, pats surprised children on their heads. His smile, when he isn't thinking of Socialists, is as broad and pleasant as the British countryside.

Prime Minister Clement Attlee defends his position with "gentleness and restraint that are deceiving." It has been demonstrated in dozens of elections there is a wallop in his meekness. He is 68, but seems younger.

Winston Churchill, who acts like a Roman candle despite his age, he will be 77 Nov. 30, stomps up and down the land speaking like thunder, commanding Britain to recapture a greatness which he says is being frittered away by lesser men.

Socialist Attlee, British prime minister since 1945, is a quiet man who hitches his thumbs into the armholes of his vest and explains things.

There is little excitement at an Attlee political meeting. He seems to try not to be dramatic. He campaign without music or flags.

The prime minister has a nimble mind. He can be devastating with a softly-spoken phrase. On the platform he lectures, taking up point by methodical point.

He rams home with effect the aspects of the Socialist program which appeal to common men—fair shares, full employment.

Of Churchill, with whom Attlee co-operated closely in the wartime coalition government, the prime minister usually speaks kindly and almost sadly.

"Mr. Churchill is an old-fashioned politician, and I suppose he can't change his methods."

Attlee has served in parliament 29 years without the faintest suspicion of personal blemish.

"Good ol' Winnie." The crowds scream as Churchill drives up with a flourish.

Really Fresh coffee for the first time

Have you ever actually tasted fresh coffee?
Really fresh? Freshly roasted! Fresh from the grinder!
There's nothing quite like it. This week your SAFEWAY
Store is featuring freshly roasted Nob Hill Coffee—freshly ground when you buy it. Don't miss it.

Nob Hill is a costly coffee to begin with

There is no finer blend. It's your kind of coffee. It's the same quality you are accustomed to. The same flavor, too—only there's more of it. Some of the world's choicest coffee beans are blended in Nob Hill. And that's just what you get... fresh-roasted WHOLE COFFEE BEANS. You see, Nob Hill is not factory-ground, weeks before you get it. That's why Nob Hill tastes fresher and costs less.

You KNOW it's fresh when you grind it yourself

To begin with, Nob Hill comes to you weeks sooner than other coffees... that means weeks fresher. Nob Hill whole coffee beans are rushed fresh from the roasting ovens to your SAFEWAY Store. There you'll find a handy coffee mill. When you flip the switch, it delivers the freshest coffee in town. Freshly roasted! Freshly ground! It's so fresh you can "taste" it. Also, it's ground precisely for your coffee maker. You have a choice of FOUR grinds. And because you grind it yourself, you save 4c or more on every pound. Simple, isn't it?

Tories Confident, But Election Upset Still Possible

LONDON, Oct. 23 (Reuters)—British general elections are notoriously unpredictable affairs, but Winston Churchill's Conservative followers are confident of victory this time. Last-minute foreign developments, however, could make the Oct. 25 election outcome a toss-up.

At the last general election in February, 1950, a decided swing to the right reduced the Labor government's majority from 146 to six. In the 20 months which have since elapsed, Conservatives claim that swing has continued.

They say it has probably been even accelerated by Labor's difficulties over rearmament, the row over Iranian oil situation and Egypt's attempt to oust British troops from the Suez Canal zone.

NEW SUPPORT

On this basis, according to Conservatives, their candidates should have gained sufficient new support to wipe out the narrow Labor majority and assume power.

Public opinion polls so far support this conclusion. In the 1950 election their forecasts of the popular vote, based on repeated examinations of cross-sections of the public, proved accurate to within narrow limits.

Before Prime Minister Clement Attlee announced the date of the coming election, the public opinion polls showed a considerable majority favoring the Conservatives.

With the election drawing closer, however, the gap has been gradually closing as many hitherto undecided voters at last make up their minds to give [illegible]

Last year Labor closed a similar gap almost at the last moment. This time, political observers are wondering whether they have too much distance to make up.

LATE DECISIONS

The "don't know" quantity in all statistics of this nature is the sizable group of people who reply "don't know" up until the last moment. If the majority of this section decide finally to throw their weight on the side of Labor, Conservatives may again be beaten at the wire.

The Liberal vote, amounting to more than 2,600,000 in the last election, is also a factor of vital importance which makes too confident prediction a foolhardy business.

Liberals put out 475 candidates to fight the election in 1950. They won only nine seats. This time, they are putting only about 150 candidates into the field. This means that hundreds of thousands of Liberal supporters will [illegible] Labor or Conservative — or not vote at all.

President Ranks Higher Than Princess But Who Takes the Head of the Table?

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP).—It'll be saddle of lamb when Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh entertain President and Mrs. Truman at dinner Nov. 1.

The Royal couple, who will visit the Trumans at Blair House for three days, will give their "bread-and-butter" dinner at the Canadian Embassy. There will be only 26 guests.

It sounds simple, but from a protocol viewpoint it's complicated. The reason is that President Truman, one of the guests-to-be, outranks everyone else, including Princess Elizabeth.

With the Royal arrival on Oct. 31, there are some important details—such as who sits where and how to get in and out of the dining room—yet to be nailed down.

The heiress presumptive to the British Throne is on this side of the Atlantic as a guest of Canada. Technically, Elizabeth is coming to Washington as Princess of Canada.

The Canadian embassy, a handsome Georgian house set in a beautiful garden, will also be the locale for a comparatively small get-together of ambassadors representing the eight countries in the British Commonwealth.

To this "family party" have been invited 150 guests representing Canada, Britain, New Zealand, Australia, Ceylon, India, Pakistan and South Africa.

Ambassador Hume Wrong and Mrs. Wrong, with the Princess and Duke, will receive their guests in the library.

There will be a reception at the British embassy to which 2,000 guests are invited—and then the dinner at the Canadian embassy.

It will then be Princess Elizabeth's turn to hurry, for she and her husband will have to leave Blair House in time to get to the embassy ahead of the Trumans and their other guests.

The dinner will be rather simple. There will be cocktails in the drawing room. But how to get into the dining room?

It isn't as simple as having Princess Elizabeth, as hostess, say "Let's eat."

It is up to Truman to take the initiative and escort the Princess into the dining room, the Duke giving his arm to Mrs. Truman.

How will they be seated? That, too, has yet to be worked out. Two can sit at each end of the table, and it may be that Mr. Truman and the Princess will be at one end and Mrs. Truman and the Duke at the other.

And when it comes to who says "Good night" first—Mr. Truman does.

Authentic photograph of Mr. J. Biller on November 16th, suffering for 20 years from Eczema all over the body, before the F "99" Treatment.

Authentic photograph of Mr. J. Biller on February 11th. The Eczema was completely cleared up after 11 weeks of F "99" Treatment.

EMINENT Scientists have discovered that the lack of unsaturated fatty acids in human nutrition is one of the main causes of skin diseases, such as Eczemas, Boils, Leg Ulcers and Psoriasis. The modern diet, in which these essential substances are often completely lacking, have brought about a deficiency in a great number of individuals.

Remarkable Swiss Discovery

A Swiss chemist, Dr. W. Schmitz, succeeded after 10 years of research work in extracting from pure vegetable oils an unsaturated fatty acid in a concentration of 99% and therefore named F "99". Thanks to this hitherto unattained purity, F "99" is so readily absorbed into the blood stream, that it has a decisive biological activity in the treatment of skin diseases.

Natural way to clear up skin troubles

F "99" is not a synthetic drug but a concentrate of natural nutritive substances. It is so harmless that it may be given even to infants without any hesitation. Its remarkable efficiency in the treatment of Eczemas, Boils, Leg Ulcers and Psoriasis has astonished even Skin Specialists of international reputation. As its name suggests, the F "99" Two-Way Treatment acts internally as well as externally. While F "99" Capsules or Liquid give the body the power to suppress the cause and combat successfully skin disease, the F "99" Ointment treats its external, visible symptoms. To many thousands of skin sufferers all over the world, F "99" Two-Way Treatment has already proved its tremendous value and is being used with outstanding results even on cases where all ordinary treatments have failed.

Illustrated Booklet on F "99"

containing all the interesting facts concerning this remarkable new Swiss Discovery which will bring new health and happiness to innumerable sufferers, can be obtained free of charge from any good drug store. Diva Laboratories, Dept. 671, P.O. Box 758, Victoria, B.C.

Delight, Disappointment Mingle as Cars Roll North

Wave for Princess Thrills Hairdresser

By EILEEN LEAROYD

Doris Stenmark, 26, native of Maidstone, Sask., and hairdresser at the Empress Hotel, shampooed and waved the hair of Great Britain's most Royal Princess yesterday.

The Royal hair, according to Miss Stenmark, is "a glowing chestnut color, of nice texture with lots of body."

"It is the clearest ivory."

The Royal eyes, Miss Stenmark said, were "a most attractive blue," and the Royal voice is "lovely."

Miss Stenmark learned she was to wave the Princess' hair from Mrs. H. A. Wallace, sister-in-law of His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace.

She arrived at Government House at 10 a.m. and was immediately ushered into the Princess' suite.

FRIENDLY TALK

"I was scared to death," said Miss Stenmark, "but Her Highness put me at ease immediately because she was so friendly. I asked her if she was anxious to start the trip home. The Princess said she missed her children very much but that she was finding the tour exciting and interesting.

"She said she had studied a great deal about Canada and knew the country was large, but it had taken this trip to make her fully realize how enormous it was."

Miss Stenmark said the Princess was wearing a tan suit with pleated skirt in a very fine check.

She did her hair in a soft wave.

The beauty operator also did the hair of Hon. Mrs. Andrew Eghmotone, lady-in-waiting, whom she said was "very charming also." Altogether, Miss Stenmark spent nearly 2½ hours in the Royal suites.

FRAIL SOUVENIRS

Miss Stenmark, who unknown to the Princess came away with several strands of the Royal hair as souvenirs, was thanked "very nicely."

To fill the young hairdresser's cup to the brim, she met Prince Philip and he smiled broadly at her.

"The whole thing was wonderful," said Miss Stenmark, "just like a dream. I wish I could remember more of the conversation, because we talked all the time, but I was too excited to remember it all clearly."

Prince Glad To Escape Rigid Security

By Colonist Staff Reporter

QUALICUM BEACH, Oct. 23.—Prince Philip apparently gets a little tired at times of the rigid security regulations that surround the Princess and him.

Today, when the Royal couple motored north on a three-day Island holiday, Prince Philip drove the lead car himself.

It was the first time the Prince had done any driving on the Canadian tour.

There was no sign of the usual R.C.M.P. or city police motorcycle escort, or the two radio-telephone equipped "high brass" police cars that usually precede the Royal couple.

DROVE THE WHOLE WAY

The Prince drove the Oldsmobile convertible all the way from Government House in Victoria to Eagle Crest Lodge. Sitting beside him was the Princess. In the back seat were two men, one in navy uniform.

Four other official cars followed the Royal vehicle. Then came two R.C.M.P. motorcycles, and one police car.

Although the Prince undoubtedly is unfamiliar with left-hand drive cars, he apparently had no difficulty. The caravan made the 106-mile trip in about three hours.

When he saw the "Welcome" banner in front of Eagle Crest, the Prince swung the car, with squealing tires, into the driveway. A guard said he was traveling at 45 miles an hour.

Royal Car Creeps Past Cheering Crowd

Duncan Mayor All Smiles for Couple, Firmly Rejects Roadblock Proposals

(Special to The Colonist)

DUNCAN, Oct. 23.—Mayor J. C. Wragg, who made news throughout the Commonwealth when he said that Duncan residents would block the road if the Royal party did not stop, there was all smiles yesterday.

The Royal car moved past the 10,000 wildly-cheering Duncan and district residents at a crawl.

As arrival time of the Royal party drew near, Mayor Wragg firmly rejected the urging of some newspapermen and photographers who wanted the mayor and council to link arms across the highway.

NOTHING DISPLEASING

"No, no," the mayor said. "We wouldn't think of doing anything that might displease Their Highnesses."

Local police showed no alarm that an incident would occur.

None of the local R.C.M.P. detachment stationed themselves near the council members to interfere even if anything in the nature of an attempted roadblock had been attempted.

Planning Proves Worth; Duncan Sees Royal Pair

(Special to The Colonist)

DUNCAN, Oct. 23.—Duncan's Royal visit organization worked like clockwork.

As soon as word was flashed to Duncan that the Royal party would be passing, the organization swung into high gear.

Every radio station on Vancouver Island and the lower mainland was asked at once to urge Duncan residents to meet at the highway.

Volunteers got to work and phoned every number in the telephone book, urging whoever answered to get to the highway vantage point.

Posters giving the time of arrival appeared on the streets.

Stores and cafes posted signs on their doors while proprietors, clerks, waitresses and customers all flocked away to see the Prince and Princess.

The huge, cheering crowd appeared to overwhelm the Princess, who kept looking with surprise from side to side as the Royal car passed through the throng.

Two Sea Cadets Hoping For Royal Fishing Party

Two Sea Cadets of Victoria's Rainbow corps were sitting on the fence between intense excitement and disappointment last night.

Able Seaman Bruce Squire and Able Seaman Richard Wood had been chosen to serve aboard Walthy, Lieutenant-Governor Clarence Wallace's yacht, in the event of a Royal fishing trip.

Last night the outlook was pessimistic. It looked as though weather and the Royal schedule would combine to make the fishing trip impossible. But the two were still hoping.

Both boys have been Sea Cadets for the last three years. They won the chance to serve aboard the yacht because of their efficiency and appearance as Sea Cadets.

At the annual rear admiral's inspection last May, Richard received an award for general efficiency and Bruce was presented with an award for courtesy and deportment. The boys surpassed 105 other senior cadets in the group to win the awards.

Both are students at Victoria High School, Richard is in Grade XI; Bruce, 15, is in Grade X.

Aboard the Walthy, the boys were to act as bow and stern men, handling the ship's line as she enters and leaves dock.

Sea Cadets Await Call

Alberni Pupils Get Holiday, No Transport

PORT ALBERNI, Oct. 23.—While District 70 school trustees have been unable to arrange transportation for pupils of the Alberni Valley schools to the east coast of the Island, for a glimpse of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip, they have decided to give pupils and teachers a holiday Friday, so that any who can secure transportation may go.

Only one trustee, Douglas Rattan, opposed the holiday. He believed many youngsters would attempt to hitchhike over the mountain highway, which would be crowded with cars. In the interest of safety, he felt children not traveling with their parents should be kept in school.

The board decided that if the Royal party decided to pay a visit to the Alberni Valley, the holiday would be canceled.

Arrangements were suggested to assemble the 2,000 school pupils at a moment's notice.

Price Dip Seen By Egg Dealers

VANCOUVER, Oct. 23 (CP).—Dealers today predicted that consumers will get eggs at 70 cents a dozen in mid-December at the producers' expense.

The retail price for grade A large now is 69 to 75 cents a dozen, but the industry spokesmen see a big surplus and steep price drops ahead.

One of most disappointed was David, who donned special clothing and collected flags in hope of an unscheduled stop. Patients had hoped to present a bouquet to the Princess.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Army, Air Force Join, Solve Protocol Problem

VANCOUVER, Oct. 23 (CP).—Protocol demands it, the R.C.A.F. carries it and the army sees that it is flown to the proper place, at the proper level, on the proper-sized pole.

Princess Elizabeth's own standard must be flown in front of any building she enters.

Fifteen of these standards, eight large, seven small, were flown into Vancouver days ahead of the Royal visit.

Two R.C.A.F. planes are detailed to carry the flags to the centres the Princess is scheduled to visit.

They leap-frog across the continent to make sure there is no delay or mishap. A duplicate set of flags is carried in each plane.

The only flag which can be flown at the same level as the Princess' standard is the Canadian ensign.

CHECK TIMETABLE

Army officials check the Royal timetable, ascertain what buildings the Royal couple will enter and then check flagpoles.

A pole less than 40 feet high takes the smaller standard; over 40 feet, the larger.

The standards, 12 by six feet for the larger and nine by four feet for the smaller, are equal as far as protocol is concerned.

Three poles had to be built here. Two buildings had no pole. One pole was rotten.

At each building a soldier is posted to make sure the standard is raised and lowered when the Princess enters and leaves.

This meant a soldier was on duty all night Saturday at the Canadian Pacific Railway depot while the Royal couple slept in their private coach.

Indians Prepared To Stage Dance

(Special to The Colonist)

DUNCAN, Oct. 23.—Indians of the Cowichan tribe, some of them performers in the Indian opera "Tzinquaw," waved along with the rest of the Duncan and districts residents yesterday.

Some did a short jig as the Royal couple passed. They were prepared to stage a typical dance on the spot if the Royal party had stopped briefly.

QUALICUM BEACH, Oct. 23.—Prince Philip had to cancel his duck hunting expedition today.

The Royal pair decided to change the original plans for the Royal couple's Thursday by flying to Lieut.-Governor Clarence Wallace's shooting lodge at Silver Valley, northeast of Fort Meadows, but bad flying weather washed out the trip.

The couple reverted to their original plans. During the morning the Princess kept a hairdressing appointment. Then, after lunch at Government House, the Royal party headed for Eagle Crest lodge near here.

After their arrival, a years' complete total blackout was enforced. No official word of Their Highnesses' doings will be released from Eagle Crest Mrs. Dafoe, Prime Minister at the lodge, announced emphatically at 9 p.m.

TWICE DAILY REPORTS

Mrs. Dafoe, who described herself as "the spokesman for the estate" said official press releases could come only from press liaison officers in Victoria.

It had been decided in Victoria that communiques would be issued twice daily.

At least 30 correspondents from major Canadian and American newspapers and wire services headed up/stand ahead of the Royal party yesterday. Some reportedly turned back after covering the tumultuous roadside greeting at Duncan.

Reporters from one large mainland daily were reported starting at the Qualicum Beach area. Late tonight another carload of newsmen was reported on its way north from Nanaimo.

At a press conference at the Empress Hotel Monday night, a majority of the correspondents accredited to the tour voted to stay in Victoria and "give the Royal couple a real rest."

Radio Indian Enlivens Thunderbird Affair

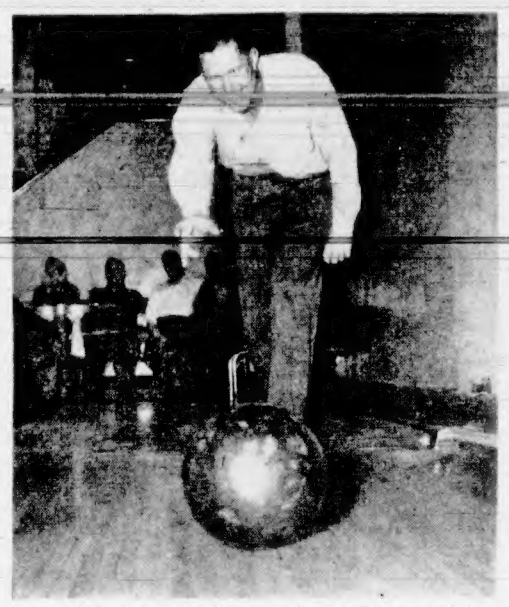
DRIVER FINED

Vernon B. McBeath, 423 Durban, was fined $25 in city police court yesterday for careless driving.

James Duncan, 47, formerly of Glasgow, charged with stealing two sweaters valued at less than $25 from a city department store, was sentenced to one month in jail.

Bowling Remains Tops as Participant Sport

Each year sees an increase in the number of people who find pleasant recreation on city bowling alleys. And for onlookers there are pretty sights such as one arranged above. Wives of players and officials of Shamrocks bowl together in fivepin league as The Rocks. From left to right, they are: Mrs. Len Scott, Mrs. Ernie Fox, Mrs. Darrell Popham, Mrs. Norm Baker, Mrs. Tom Druce and Mrs. Arnold Ferguson.



One of most familiar figures when tenpinners get together is Bill Coates, who spends much of spare time on alleys and usually bowls for two or three teams each season. Coates recently missed perfect "300" game when he drew split on 12th ball after 11 straight strikes and had to settle for 298.

On record to date, Gorge Hotel team is city's best. Hotelmen are out in front in Senior Tenpin League and by expressions, lost no ground last night in trundling at Gibson's Bowladrome. Consistency is main reason for their success in six-team league. Clustered around score pad apparently happy at what it says are left to right, Jack Bacon, Andy Palmer, Fred Welsh, Bill Norris and Len Murrant.

Commercial League to Raise Curtain On Season With Three Tilts Tonight

The Victoria Commercial Hockey League will raise the curtain on its 1951-52 season at 7 tonight in Memorial Arena.

Following the opening ceremonies, six teams, Civil Service, Capitals, Individuals, Victoria Merchants, Army and Navy, will begin the third annual struggle for league and playoff championships and individual honors.

Civil Service and Capitals will open league play. Navy and Army will meet in the feature attraction and Individuals and Victoria Merchants will wind up the evening.

Strength of the individual clubs cannot be determined yet. There are many new faces this year and some of the players have not yet decided which team to join.

At the beginning the Army entry was believed to have the strongest lineup, but now coach Charlie Pachal is worried over his defense, or lack of it.

DUAL CLAIM

Two players, Cliff Coulter and Steve Harris, have been listed on two lineups for tonight. Jim Clarke has announced they will be out for his Victoria Merchant crew and Bill Oliver is just as certain they will play for Civil Service.

The two players in question played with the G-Men last season and are still signed by that club.

Ed Varga, league scoring champion for the past two seasons, is also being claimed by two teams. It was reported that Varga wished to play with the same team as Norm LaCree, in this case Capitals. However, Oliver stated yesterday that Varga appeared willing to play with his club after a talk yesterday morning.

Lineups from which the teams will pick for tonight's matches:

Civil Service—goal, Dave Fyfe; defense, Archie McLean, Fred McColl, B. Reeves, Jim Gordon; forwards, Alex Hrydiuk, Les Corby, Jack Quinn, Earl King, Stuart Timbers, Ken Sutherland, Frank Smith, Jim Hallam, Ernie White, Len Walsh.

Army—goal, Fred Lang or Doug Boecher; defense, Ab Fast, Hunter, Red Gorham, McLean; forwards, Rod Hallam, Roy White, Cy Varya, Moran, Kirbysson, Curly Petris, Church, Carr, Freeborn.

Individuals—goal, Derek McCreevy; defense, Bill Robinson, Bob Seens, Ed Stusek, Mervin Karst, Bill Sherwood, Walt Lee, Dick Irving; forwards, Norm Kowalyk, Art Green, Arnold Elliott, Bob McConnechy, Bob Fowler, Stan Delaney, Berlyn Hodges, Mark Phillips, Terry Corrigan, Maurice Cunningham.

IT BEATS ME

Although under one of those interminable Congressional investigations at the moment, baseball more and more stands out as the American institution it claims to be. Not since 1919 has the diamond sport been afflicted with the bribery and fixing scandals which are undermining public confidence in so many sports today and it now occupies a singular position of public trust.

No one can put it better than Bob Ruark did in a recent column. If memory serves, Ruark was a sportswriter before he became a columnist whose hard-hitting style of writing quickly won him fame and greater fame. He has sometimes seen fit to criticize the field he used to cover but he was moved to eulogy during the world series when news of the Royal tour, the atom bomb, Korea and the gangland slaying of Willie Moretti was backed off U.S. front pages. It's Ruark from here:

"Baseball is about the last thing we have of paramount importance that so far has been tamper-proof. As such it commands tremendous respect, and the nation knocks off.

"I can tell you simply why the visit of Princess Liz and the scrapping of poor Willie was neglected to the detriment of Royal presence and illegal removal. Baseball is a thing we can trust, and the mere existence of a conflict which reflects personal security is automatic front-page news.

"The folks mistrust Truman and his friends, but they know mighty well that a pitcher would dust off his grandmother to protect an earned-run average. Acheson is open to doubt but DiMaggio ain't. The kids lose dope, perhaps, and muggers abound and you never know when the man on the stand is telling the truth. The cops steal and the political hook-up with the mob is apparent and the air is full of sound and fury. But major baseball has stayed clean despite all efforts to contaminate it.

"It is a sad thing that a simple sport like baseball is bigger than a queen-to-be's visit and the murder of a top racketeer and bigger than the mess in Washington, or the implied doom of us all, atomwise, nitrogen, diplomacywise. And the answer is easily as simple as the sport. All of us need something to hang onto and darned if baseball isn't about the last best security we own."

U.S. Towns Not Interested In Hoop Loop

VANCOUVER, Oct. 23 (CP). — Officials of the Inter-City Basketball League said today they assumed Bellingham and Mount Vernon were not interested in joining the new senior men's loop.

Officials were supposed to hear from the Americans Monday but since they did not they said they assumed they were not interested.

"We will go on now with our plans for a four-team league comprising the Vancouver Eilers and Vancouver Clover Leafs, Victoria and Port Alberni," officials said.

Rickey Claims Farm System Saved Baseball

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22. (AP) Branch Rickey, general manager of Pittsburgh Pirates, told Congress today the farm system he helped create is the savior of baseball.

Only the fact that major league clubs poured money into the minors during the depression kept baseball alive, Rickey told a house of representatives judiciary sub-committee.

"I'll make the sweeping statement that the farm system is the savior of baseball," Rickey said with fatherly pride, "and without it it is problematical that we could have minor league baseball at all."

The sub-committee is studying whether baseball violates anti-trust laws as has been claimed in several suits brought against baseball.

Flyers Clobber Canucks in Edmonton To Gain Three-Way Fifth-Place Tie

HOW THEY STAND

	W	L	T	GF	GA	Pts.
New Westminster	4	2	0	34	31	8
Victoria	4	4	0	41	35	8
Saskatoon	3	2	1	30	29	7
Seattle	3	4	1	41	41	7
Edmonton	3	4	0	37	34	6
Calgary	3	5	0	38	38	6
Tacoma	3	5	0	31	36	6
Vancouver	0	5	0	26	36	0

Edmonton Flyers flashed scoring punch for the second game in a row to trim the luckless Vancouver Canucks 7-4, in a P.C.H.L. game at Edmonton last night.

The victory moved the prairie team into a three-way tie with Calgary and Tacoma for fifth place and left Canucks more firmly embedded in the league basement, only two games away from tying a league record. Counting three games at the end of last season and 10 this season, the Vancouverites have now played 13 league games without winning.

The record is 15, set by the 1949-50 Victoria Cougars.

Last night's game was a rough one. Referee Bill Knott handed out 20 penalties, including a match misconduct for Norm Gustaveson, a 10-minute misconduct for Ronnie Rowe and majors to Eddie Joss and Bill Shill.

PROTEST TOO MUCH

Both misconduct penalties were levied when Canucks argued about a bookings penalty to Vic Lofvendahl so long that Knott had to pull his watch to get the game started.

Flyers took an early lead and extended their margin to 6-1 before Canucks made a belated rally late in the third period. Colin Stilburn opened the scoring with Vancouver's Hab Tarala in the penalty box early in the first period, potted a second goal in the third period after Lofvendahl was seated in the sin bin.

High School Half of Gala Slated Friday at Crystal

The second half of the annual Victoria schools swimming gala, sponsored by the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club, will be held at the Crystal Garden, Friday.

The elementary school half of the gala was completed last Friday with Lampson Street School capturing the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club Trophy, emblematic of the aggregate championship.

Ten schools will be participating in the junior and senior high schools gala Friday. They are Victoria High School, Oak Bay, St. Margaret's, Mount Newton, North Saanich, Mount View, Belmont, Esquimalt, Central Junior and S. J. Willis.

Most of the inter-school rivalry will be provided by Victoria High and Oak Bay, defending aggregate champion and runner-up, respectively. Victoria High will provide 50 of the 275 competitors, and Oak Bay has entered 40 swimmers.

Among the cups and trophies up for competition are the Sir Edward Beatty Cup, for the senior high schools aggregate title, and the Dickinson & Dunn Trophy, a new trophy this year, for the junior high schools aggregate championship.

The gala will consist of 20 events, including for the first time breast stroke and back stroke competitions. Racing in all previous galas was confined to free style swimming.

Stewart Winner In First Tourney

John Stewart won the first round-robin tournament in the "B" division of the Victoria Table Tennis Association at its club rooms in the Club Sirocco last night.

Stewart did not lose a match in the tourney. He was followed by Bill Jones who lost one game and Ray Drummond who lost three. Other winners in order were: Trevor Heaney, Iris Langille, Bob McKean, Gordon Cox, Stanley Hallson, Peggy Neal and Vivian Notley.

Vernon Downs Packers 5-2 To Knot Lead

VERNON, B.C., Oct. 23 (CP)—Vernon Canadians defeated Kelowna Packers, 5-2, tonight to go into a first-place tie with Kamloops Elks in the Okanagan Senior Hockey League.

Vernon took a big 4-1 lead in the first period and the teams each scored one in the second. The third heat was scoreless.

Clippers Down Penticton for Third Win in Row

NANAIMO, B.C., Oct. 23 (CP)—Showing a mite more moxey defensively, Nanaimo Clippers tonight came up with their third straight pucksweigh when they defeated Penticton V's, 8-3, in an inter-league senior puck fixture here.

Taking a 3-1 lead in the first period, Clippers increased their margin to 6-3 by the end of the second and then slapped home two more in third.

Penticton, coached by ex-Vancouver Canuck Gerry Couture, displayed plenty of speed but were weak on the rear end. Only smart goaling by Ivan McLelland kept the score from going to double figures.

The Sportlight

By GRANTLAND RICE

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 The up-and-coming Pacific Coast has been asking to be rated as the third big league. This is a reasonable request if the Coast can dig up enough big league cities and enough big league ballplayers.

Suppose we inspect the situation at large. There are now 16 major league clubs with an enrollment of some 500 ballplayers. Does anyone think there are 500 major league ballplayers in action today? Does anyone actually believe there are 200 major league ballplayers around? Will anyone argue there are 100 certified, dead-sure major league ballplayers operating?

Look over the records of the hitters. Look over the even more scarred and tattered records of what they now call big league pitchers. Look over the home run balls and the bases on balls and the blow-ups and the frantic signals to 16 bullpens for relief.

What is a big league ballplayer? The stars are Musial, Robinson, the DiMaggio brothers, Campanella, Ashburn, Berra, Fain, Rizzuto, Williams, Kell, Minoso, Irvin, Dark, Kiner, Reese and a few more.

The good pros include Slaughter, Hodges, Furillo, Stanky, Snider, Lockman, Pafko, Fox, Carrasquel and a few more. The promising kids include Mays, McDougald, Mantle and a small number of others. But if you add up the entire list you won't reach 100 old-fashioned big league ballplayers.

Look over the old Cubs, Johnny Kling, catcher—one of the greatest. Brown, Overall—Reulbach, etc., pitchers. Chance, Evers, Tinker, Steinfeldt, infield. Sheckard, Hofman, Schulte and Slagle, outfield. Every one a major leaguer.

The old Athletics—McInnis, Collins, Barry, Baker, Thomas, Schang, Bender, Plank, Waddell, Coombs, Oakley, Rush and Pennock. These were exceptional teams, of course. But it strikes me that real big leaguers abounded in those good old days.

The Big-League Angle

The West Coast initial needs are more big league ball parks and big-league populations in many cities. Los Angeles and San Francisco? One hundred per cent big league. But if they rate major league status, what about Baltimore or Buffalo, Houston or Dallas?

It is hard to understand the big-league slump. More kids are playing baseball today than ever before. The little league has thousands of youngsters operating under good instructors. There are many, many other leagues or teams for players ranging from 10 to 18 years.

Maybe they haven't had time to develop. But many of them should later on.

To show the scarcity of big league players, meaning those of real big league calibre, take the Dodgers. The Dodgers had five or six men nominated for an all-star team—Campanella, Robinson, Hodges, Roe and Newcombe, with Reese close up.

The Dodgers were among the elite of 1951 baseball. Yet they couldn't hold a 13½ game lead over the Giants from Aug. 11 until the end of the season—only seven weeks! This included a 16-game margin on the important losing side.

Now, the Giants were a good ball club this year. So were the Yankees. But certainly neither was a great ball club. Everyone knows that. As a rule we have always been inclined to give credit to players over the managers. But this time one must award the chaplet of live blooms to Casey Stengel and Leo Durocher. Both turned in magnificent jobs, considering their material.

Big-league ballplayers, for the moment, are too much on the scarce side. There will be a third big league later. But we must develop more big leaguers first to fill out another league.

'Rough Play' Charges Fly In U.S. College Football

From INS Reports

On top of the ever-spreading basketball scandal and the report that some football games are under investigation, college sport in the U.S. was dealt another hard blow this past week with allegations of overly-rough football creating headlines from coast to coast.

From campuses at California, Drake, Tulsa and Marquette have come heated charges of rough play by opponents.

Drake University Athletic Council voted unanimously yesterday to register a protest with the Missouri Valley Conference commissioners over the alleged "deliberate" injuring of Johnny Bright, in last Saturday's game with Oklahoma A. & M.

STILL IN HOSPITAL

Bright, the all-American colored backfield ace who recently set a new ground-gaining record, is still in hospital with a fractured jaw received Saturday and charges are flying thick and fast.

After viewing motion pictures of the game Drake officials charged that "there were at least three vicious, malicious and intentional attacks upon the person of Johnny Bright which were gross violations of football rules and ethics."

Drake players contend that Wilbanks Smith, Oklahoma tackle, "deliberately" smashed his fist at least twice into Bright's face after the Drake star was out of the play.

AT LOW EBB

"Sportmanship is at a low ebb when an outstanding player like Johnny Bright is subjected to such abuse. I deplore it," he said.

Oklahoma officials "regretted" the incident and coach J. B. Whitworth stated the action in which Bright was injured was "illegal but unintentional."

Bright said he remembered getting fists in the face twice and newspaper pictures indicated he was correct.

Tulsa and Marquette Universities were hurling charges and counter-charges over last Saturday's game, won by Tulsa, 27-21.

Officials at Tulsa have requested termination of football relations with Marquette after Coach Eddie Blackburn of Marquette accused Tulsa of employing "roughness" and "flagrantly illegal tactics" in the game.

The battle of words was raging from California as well although coach Lynn Waldorf refused to make any definite charges against Southern California over last Saturday's upset win for the Trojans over his Bears.

DIRTY PLAY

However, California alumni were not so cautious and were openly accusing the Trojans of "dirty" play. California lost fullback John Olszewski early in the game after he was brought down by tackle Pat Cannamela and lost, 21-14, after taking a 14-0 first-half lead.

There were some complaints from University of Washington supporters the week before, when Southern California defeated the Huskies by a margin of 20-0. There was a suspicion that rough play by the winners and new Rose Bowl favorites.

Hitting back, Jess Hill, former New York Yankee outfielder who is making a success out of his coaching job at Southern California, labeled the charges "an insult to our university."

He claimed pictures proved that the tackle which sidelined Olszewski was "as clean a tackle as you ever would see."

Golf--- Here's How

By SAM SNEAD

Golf's Greatest Player-Teacher

You "gather" a golf swing. You don't force it when you start down. You just apply steady pressure, mainly from the left arm. Nevertheless the illustration shows well the downward pull of the arms. The weight is passing over to the left foot from the right in rhythmic motion.

The left side is starting to become rigid. This provides the fulcrum against which the arms, the reversing of the pivot, and the uncocking wrists hit at impact. Notice that the wrists are not yet uncocked. That's right. The hands should not be fully uncocked until the instant of impact. You may not realize how great the power is that is generated in the clubhead by the uncocking of the wrists at the bottom of the swing. But remember that the clubhead is forty odd inches away from your hands and there's a lot of power far out at the end of that shaft. Swing smoothly.

Police Deny Charge Of "Scaring" Player

KITCHENER, Ont., Oct. 23 (CP) — Police Chief John Patrick today denied charges that Kitchener police "scared the pants off" a young player who is the subject of a player dispute between the Kitchener Canucks and Galt Black Hawks of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior "A" teams.

Red Hamill, coach of the Galt Black Hawks, said Kitchener police telephoned James Farelli, young Fort William player, and badly frightened him. Hamill did not specify what was allegedly said.

Farelli, property of Montreal Canadiens, attended Chicago Black Hawks' training camp and later went to Galt. He had been ordered to report to Kitchener-Canadien affiliate by the N.H.L. club.

Kitchener officials reported they had been unable to reach Farelli and several days ago charged that Galt was "hiding" the boy.

All-Star Team Dominated By Pennant-Shy Dodgers

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP) — Brooklyn's deflated Dodgers couldn't make the World Series but they dominated the 1951 A.P. baseball all-star team, placing three of the 10 positions.

Half of the 16 big league clubs, four in each circuit, are represented in the AP's sixth annual all-star squad, selected yesterday by 186 members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

The pennant-winning New York Yankees and New York Giants placed only one member each on the stellar squad. Other teams represented are Boston Red Sox, Detroit Tigers, Philadelphia Athletics, St. Louis Cardinals and Pittsburgh Pirates.

The all-star team:

First base—Ferris Fain, Athletics.
Second base—Jackie Robinson, Dodgers.
Third base—George Kell, Tigers.
Shortstop—Phil Rizzuto, Yankees.
Centre field—Stan Musial, Cardinals.
Catcher—Roy Campanella, Dodgers.
Lefthanded pitcher—Preacher Roe, Dodgers.
Righthanded pitcher—Sal Maglie, Giants.

Five of the players are holdovers from the 1950 all-star squad, while Rizzuto, Kiner and Musial, Musial, who missed out only once since the poll was inaugurated in 1936, was one short.

Robinson walked off with second base honors, obtaining 180 votes. Kell was favored by 134 writers for third base. Rookie Gil McDougald of the Yankees was second best with only 21. Fain, American League batting champion, won the first base job from Brooklyn's Gil Hodges, 111 to 67.

Campanella, destroyed Yogi Berra of the Yankees behind the plate, 169 to 19. They were the only catchers named.

Roe (22-3), boasting the best percentage among the pitchers, was named on 116 ballots to win the southpaw nomination over Warren Spahn (22-14) of Boston Braves. Maglie (23-6), who with teammate Larry Jansen, gained the most victories, was far in front of Allie Reynolds (17-8) of the Yankees for righthanded honors.

Records follow:

Thunderbird Will Fight Return Match

Chief Thunderbird has demanded a return match with Jack MacDonald, Nick Harris, local wrestling promoter, announced last night.

The popular Saanich wrestler was beaten in the feature bout of last Saturday's card by the powerful Oregon logger.

Harris reported yesterday that the Chief is out for MacDonald's scalp and will be able to seek his revenge this Saturday.

Al Watkin, a student at the University of Washington and Tarzan Polvin, of Vancouver, who fought to the special event, Tyke Myren and Cecil Warshop, who fought to a draw with Lionel Speller last week, will meet in the local opener.

Remainder of the card will be announced later.

Defence is your duty, too!

The most important job in Canada today is defence. And defence is not the responsibility of just a few. It is a duty which every young and able man in Canada must accept — if we want to make sure we stay free.

You as a free Canadian citizen must be prepared to meet any challenge to your freedom. The least you can do in these uncertain days is to serve part time as a Citizen-Soldier in the Canadian Army Reserve Force.

You devote one or two evenings a week to training in the arts and skills of the modern soldier. In addition there are the occasional week-end exercises and two weeks of summer camp.

The Reserve Force soldier receives the same uniforms and equipment as used in the Active Force. He is paid Active Force rates of pay for all training periods.

There are Reserve Force units in towns and cities across Canada. There is one in your district. Visit it right away. Find out how you can serve Canada in the Reserve Force.

Defence is every Canadian's duty. It is your duty, too!

By Fergus St. Clair, Colonist Telegraph Editor

(From AP, CP, INS, Reuters)

External Affairs Minister L. B. Pearson said in Ottawa yesterday that one of the quickest ways to destroy the Commonwealth would be to establish a central authority to dictate a common diplomacy, a common foreign policy, for all members.

He made the statement in concluding a foreign affairs debate begun Monday. After Mr. Pearson finished, members unanimously adopted a motion [illegible] Canada's efforts in the United Nations and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Plans and Proposals

A newspaper in Melbourne, Australia, suggests that Australia should explore the propriety of making some contribution to the King's Privy Purse—the allowance made by the British government for the sovereign's personal use. The paper commented on reports of depletion of the Royal Family's private fortune, and noted that the monarch is also King of Australia.

* * *

A Portland report says an electric company of Stafford, England, appears to be low bidder on a multi-million-dollar generator design, manufacture and delivery job involving three huge generators for an Oregon dam.

* * *

Clamor for an independent Scotland, says a Glasgow dispatch, after rising to a crescendo last year with theft of the ancient Scottish Coronation stone from London, has been subdued by the wider issues of the general election campaign, but is liable to break out anew after the voting.

* * *

Bernard Baruch, elder U.S. statesman, warns in New Haven, Conn., that inflation can destroy America as surely as any foe—and lays down his own rigid program to hold the price line. He calls for immediate imposition of ceilings on all services and all prices, wages and rents, backed up by a tax program to "pay as we go."

People in the News

The Canadian Army's 66th casualty list issued at Ottawa includes seven men wounded and one injured in action. One of the wounded is Pte. Hector Galbraith MacCubbin, son of Mrs. Mary MacCubbin of 62 East 46th Avenue, Vancouver. All the rest were from eastern Canada.

* * *

James Creighton, 45, former hockey-star and referee, has been elected mayor of Brandon, Man., scoring an impressive victory over his opponent, Mayor F. T. Williamson.

Three leaders of Canada's Protestant churches have left Vancouver by airlift plane for Korea to visit the Canadian fighting forces. They are Archbishop Walter F. Barfoot of Edmonton, Anglican Primate; Dr. Norman D. Kennedy, Moderator of the Presbyterian Church, and Dr. C. M. Nicholson, Moderator of the United Church in Canada.

* * *

In Washington Mrs. Florence Bratten, secretary to Vice-President Alben Barkley, has emphatically denied that she had ever done anything wrong or taken any fees in connection with government loan applications. She and a Senate committee counsel had been questioned in connection with a proposed loan.

* * *

Friends in Nashua, N.H., of Dr. Hermann N. Sander, acquitted of the so-called "mercy-killing" of a cancer patient, say they are confident he will be readmitted to the local county medical association.

* * *

From Here and There

In Ottawa, Lt.-Col. Gordon Churchill (P.C., Winnipeg South Centre) has urged the government to ensure that the Canadian troops going to Europe this fall are a highly-trained, mobile striking force with plenty of protection for the individual soldier. They should, he said, have tanks, self-propelled guns and armoured infantry carriers.

Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier says in Ottawa that it will take time to bring about an equalization of freight rates in Canada, with considerable study devoted to the effect of changes on the railways, on industry and on other interested parties.

New Cabinet For Pakistan

KARACHI, Pakistan, Oct. 23 (AP).—Prime Minister Khwaja Nazimuddin tonight announced the new Pakistan cabinet which includes two new ministers.

Mohammed Ali, former secretary-general will be finance minister succeeding Ghulam Mohamed, who became governor-general. Punjab governor Sardar Abdur Rab Nishtar has been appointed minister for industries.

Top U.S. Trouble Shooter Seeks Dock Strike's End

NEW YORK, Oct. 23 (AP).—The United States' top trouble-shooter came to New York today to untangle a wildcat dock strike that is choking the east coast.

Federal mediation director Cyrus S. Ching sent his chief aide, Clyde Mills, on the hurried mission as a cry arose for White House intervention in the snowballing strike.

Mills got here a few hours after C.I.O. seamen threw their weight behind the dock strike and threatened to make passenger liners as well as cargo ships idle.

He joined a three-man panel of federal mediators already on the scene.

Rebel A.F.L. dock workers have crippled the vast port of New York, as tens of thousands of tons of supplies backed up.

Ships also were tied up at Boston and Atlantic coast ports where there quit in sympathy with the New York strike.

Air force materiel for Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's North Atlantic Treaty forces in Europe lay on Newark docks. Stevedores there refused to touch it.

Army supplies were tied up at military bases in Brooklyn and Staten Island.

However, a strike leader said a hitch that developed at Staten Island over the troopships was "a mistake."

Frank Fitzpatrick, Local 791 president, said he had a son of his own in Korea and pledged his striking stevedores to load troop ships from here on out "for nothing, if necessary."

John Sampson, a sparkplug of the rank-and-file contract revolt of the stevedores, said they are ready to "stay out for six months, if necessary."

Milnes Landing Election Set

Taxpayers in the Sooke district will meet at Milnes Landing High School tonight at 8 p.m. to elect representatives to the school district No. 62 trustee election.

Annual trusteees report will be given by trustee D. J. DeRochie.

Elected at the Langford meeting Monday night were representatives: Mrs. A. Turner, R. L. Lawrance, W. D. Johnson, and J. Jackson.

Other meetings to be held, are as follows, Colwood, Oct. 26; Jordan River, Oct. 29; Happy Valley, Oct. 30; Port Renfrew, Nov. 2; Shirley-Muir Creek, Nov. 5; Metchosin, Nov. 7; East Sooke, Nov. 8; Otter Point, Nov. 12.

Buffalo Meat May Be Sold

CALGARY, Oct. 23 (CP).—Canadians may get a rare taste of buffalo meat this winter.

A Calgary packing firm has been awarded a contract by the federal department of resources to slaughter 600 head of buffalo at Elk Island National Park, near Edmonton.

Meat from the younger animals will be sold in butcher shops across Canada. The meat will retail about the same price as beef.

Will Seek Noah's Ark On Ararat

PAU, France, Oct. 23 (Reuters).—A former Antarctic explorer plans to look for Noah's Ark on Mount Ararat, Turkey, it was announced in this Pyrenees mountain town today.

He is Jean De Riquer, a civil service employee who went on the Paule-Emile Victor expedition last year.

The expedition will be financed by public contributions. Pierre Claverie, another amateur explorer, will accompany Riquer.

Interests in the Biblical vessel was aroused during the war when Allied pilots reported spotting what looked like an ark on the 16,000-foot mountain.

U.S. Delays Vatican Representation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP).—The White House tonight called off plans for diplomatic representation at the Vatican until the Senate can pass on nomination of Gen. Mark Clark as the first American ambassador to the Roman Catholic Church state.

Press Secretary Joseph Short announced that President Truman has decided against a recess appointment for Clark.

In answer to questions, Short said there are no plans to set up an interim embassy to do business until a regular ambassador is confirmed.

[illegible] suggestion that the decision was related in any way to the wave of Protestant protests which arose after the Clark nomination was sent to the Senate last Saturday. The Senate adjourned without acting on the nomination.

Rather, Short said, the decision was based on two considerations:

1. Legislation is necessary to permit the General to accept the diplomatic assignment and still keep his army status, which he does not want to give up.

[illegible] himself has some work he wants to complete as chief of army field forces before undertaking the ambassadorial assignment.

Girls Walk Off With Top Honors At Esquimalt Awards Ceremony

By SHIRLEY HALLMARK
Esquimalt High School

Esquimalt High's annual prize-giving ceremony held Wednesday afternoon, saw the girls win most of the top honors. From scholarship to citizenship awards the female sex held the limelight, as hopes were expressed the boys would offer more competition

After welcoming the guests and ex-students at the commencement exercises, Mr. C. A. Kelly, principal, introduced Mrs. G. A. Stelk, regent, Esquimalt Chapter, who presented this year's winner, Brahna Hooper, the I.O.D.E. scholarship.

Mrs. J. W. Smith, president, Esquimalt P.T.A., awarded Parent Teacher Association bursaries to these top-ranking students: Grade IX, Carol Larson; Grade X, Audrey Beaumont; Grade XI, Joan Tanner, and Grade XII, Doreen Robbie.

A special presentation of Students' Association Letter Awards for non-academic, non-athletic activities, in the form of an old English "E," was made by Jerry Carter, president of the association. For contributing so much to the welfare of the school in the past four years, Treavor Jeanes, Jeanne MacKay, Shirley Nutter and Jean Spedding received their letters.

Mr. J. Gough, assistant municipal inspector of schools, presented Students' Association Trophies for Sports to Bev Sweeney and Ted Saunders. These trophies were earned not only by participation in sports, but, more important, outstanding sportsmanship.

TWO CUPS WON

Two popular last year students were awarded cups, Jeanne MacKay, the citizenship trophy, and Jean Spedding, best all-round student award.

Journalism awards were given by Miss M. Conibear, sponsor of the club, to members who did outstanding work on the Annual. Receiving these were: Joan Heignes, photography; Malcolm Scatterd, business management; Bill Woods, art; and Shirley Nutter, a well-earned editors' award.

Mention was made of two scholarships won by students of the school, one going to Brahna Hooper (Nurses' Association), and the second to Gerry Guest who has won the drama scholarship for the second year.

Major R. H. Green, chairman of the Greater Victoria School Board, presented the all important high school graduation certificates to members of the 1951 graduating class.

Mr. W. D. Reid, introduced this year's prefects and presented prefect pins.

Mrs. W. W McGill, of Greater Victoria School Board, was pleased to present the Arion Club shield to the school. Mr. C. Oram accepted on behalf of the choir in the 1951 Music Festival.

The afternoon's entertainment concluded with selections by the senior and junior choirs. After the ceremony, the prefects and staff arranged a conducted tour of the new school and refreshments were served.

Armored Car Being Made For Fearful Evita Peron

LONDON, Oct. 23 (NANA-Kemnews). Mme. Evita Peron, wife of the Argentine president, has ordered a $22,400 armor-plated luxury car from a well-known British firm because she fears assassination. The car, her third from Britain, is being assembled under hush-hush conditions in the north of England.

Delivery has been promised at the end of the year. The car is an eight-cylinder model, with bullet-proof crystal windshield, and windows one and a quarter inches thick. The tires will be what are known in the trade as runflats, a British wartime invention.

The walls of the tires are so thick that they will run 60 miles after being punctured. The body-work will be in pale grey, and the upholstery in pale blue.

Evita Peron has no fear of the descamidos—"the shirtless ones" —with whom she is popular, but she has incurred the enmity of the army cliques who opposed her candidacy for the vice-presidency.

She has been known to carry a hand-grenade in her handbag.

Her first Rolls-Royce was brought back to this country and resold to a Lancashire retailer for $13,440.

Her only complaint was that there was not sufficient chromium-plate on it, but for the new car the accent will be on armor-plate.

U.S. Moves in Germany Charted by Czech Spies

FRANKFURT, Oct. 23 (Reuters).—There is a lieutenant-colonel in Prague who knows more about Allied preparations to defend West Germany than many an Allied general.

He is the operations chief of the Communist-controlled Czechoslovak Military Intelligence Service, Bureau West. Over his desk flow an endless stream of photographs, maps, Western army documents and reports from Czech intelligence agents "in the field."

"In the field" means, primarily, in West Germany. The Russians appear to have given the Czechs the main espionage assignment in West Germany. According to the best Allied calculations, there now are between 200 and 500 Czech spies in West Germany.

Only a few of the 60 to 70 seized by Allied counter-intelligence men this year were Communists. The majority appear to have been recruited by threats, guile or blandishments. 80 per cent of them are rank amateurs.

LIKE CONVEYOR BELT

The bundles of documents stolen from Allied military and diplomatic offices in West Germany, the crudely drawn maps of supply depots and barracks, the out-of-focus photographs of weapons and material, the almost-illegibly scrawled jottings of the spies all this "raw material" flows into the colonel's Prague office like ore on a conveyor belt.

A dozen or more highly-skilled men "refine" it. Captain Otokar Feifar, who used to be one of them, cleaned out his office files one night, crossed the frontier into West Germany, and turned them over to U.S. army agents.

"You would be amazed how much the Czechs know about the Control Staff," he told a Reuters correspondent. "Their methods may seem crude, but the evaluators are the key to the system and they know their jobs."

Culbertson on Bridge - - - -

(Copyright 1951, by Ely Culbertson)

Most bridge players are too concerned with each trick as a separate entity, and too little concerned with planning the future play. Take declarer's first trick play in today's deal for example.

South, dealer.
Neither side Vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♦	2 ♥
4 ♠	Pass	5 ♠	Pass
6 ♠	Pass	Pass	Pass

East's two-heart overcall was not a thing of beauty, and although East escaped immediate punishment in the form of a double, the significance of his bid should have given South a blueprint for the play of his six spade contract.

West opened the deuce of hearts, and declarer promptly reached for dummy's queen! (He probably felt that there was no sense in leaving the blank queen in dummy). East covered the queen of course and South won with the heart ace.

Declarer laid down the spade ace, then cashed dummy's top diamonds and ruffed the diamond five in an effort to drop the queen. This was not successful, however, and time was running out on South. As a final expedient he played West for the club king, but this unlikely possibility did not develop, and down South went!

It was absurd to waste the heart queen on the first trick. Dummy should have played low and declarer should have won with the ace. Surely, East's bid would be bad enough if he had the two missing kings without them. It would have been impossible. Then, South, should draw trumps, strip all the diamonds from dummy, and then throw East in by leading the heart queen. East's forced club return would give South an easy finesse.

Uncle Wiggily Story - - -

By Howard Garis

EMPTY CANS

Uncle Wiggily was in a room of his hollow stump bungalow all by himself. The jolly old rabbit gentleman, with the pink, twinkling nose, was typewriting a story. That evening he wanted to read the story to his little rabbit boys and girls.

Jackie and Peetie Bow Wow, outside, near the window in the room, made so much noise having a barking race, that Uncle Wiggily could not write his story. So he kindly asked the two little puppy dogs to stop their barking and run away.

Very politely Jackie and Peetie ran away. They stopped barking and Jackie said: "If we can't have a barking race, to see which of us two can bark the loudest, let's have another kind of a race, Peetie."

"What other kind of a race, Jackie?"

"Let's have a tin can race," suggested Jackie.

"What is a tin can race?" Peetie wanted to know.

"First, we must find two tin cans," barked Jackie. He and his brother Peetie were now so far away from the hollow stump bungalow that the barking talk of the two little puppy dogs could not be heard by Uncle Wiggily. So Longears once again started to write the story.

"All right," barked Peetie. "To have a tin can race, we must first get two tin cans, is that right, Jackie?"

"Yes, Peetie, that is right. Come on, we'll go look for two tin cans."

"What kind of cans?" Peetie asked.

"It doesn't make any difference," barked Jackie.

"I should think it would make a big difference," said Peetie.

"No, it doesn't," said Jackie as he began to look around back of trees and behind bushes for a tin can. "It doesn't make any difference what kind of cans we have, a can will be all right."

"I don't think so," spoke Peetie. "If you find a small tomato can and I find a big applesauce can, no big can might run faster than your small tomato can. Then the race wouldn't be fair."

"Cans cannot run, you know."

"Ha! Ha! Ha!" laughed Jackie. "It is very kind of you, Peetie, to think of that. But the cans aren't going to race by themselves. Cans cannot run, you know. They have no legs."

"But they can roll," barked Peetie. "Especially down hill. And if I find a big applesauce can it would roll down hill faster than your small tomato can."

"Thank you for being so kind and fair, Peetie," said Jackie. "But this isn't going to be a race between two cars."

"I thought you said it was to be a tin can race."

"So it is, Peetie. That is sort of. But it will really be a race between you and me. I will tie a tin can on your tail. You will tie a tin can on my tail. Then we will start to run, dragging the cans behind us. Whichever of us first runs all the way around Uncle Wiggily's bungalow will win the tin can race."

"Oh, now I understand it," barked Peetie. "That will be lots of fun. Come on, let's get the cans."

Under a mulberry bush Jackie found a small empty can that had once been filled with peaches. Peetie found a small empty can that had once been filled with string beans. Next the two little puppy dogs found some pieces of string.

"Now, Peetie," barked Jackie, "please tie the peach can on my tail. Tie it good and tight."

"Yes, Jackie, I'll do that."

"Then Peetie, I'll tie the bean can on your tail."

"Thank you, ever so much," said Peetie.

Soon the empty cans were tied on each puppy dog's tail.

"What next?" asked Peetie.

"Next we will start to race around Uncle Wiggily's bungalow," barked Jackie.

The puppy dogs began to run, pulling the bouncing, rattling empty cans on their tails behind them. Perhaps you can guess what happened.

Anyhow I can tell you tomorrow if the coffee pot doesn't hang a wooden spoon on the dish pan and make so much noise that it wakes up the pussy cat.

Answer to Yesterday's Puzzle

(Released by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

ALTON, England (CP) — Authorities of this Surrey County town had high expectations when an urn was found sticking from the ground. Later investigation indicated the urn came from a broken pipe under the surface.

Woodworkers May Ask Year's Work Guarantee

International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) may seek a guaranteed number of working days each year, the union's [illegible] in January at Vancouver, Roy Whittle, I.W.A. union business agent, said here yesterday.

The subject was first brought to union attention during two extended forest closures of the past summer. The closures, coupled with suspension of work by winter snows, resulted in some woodworkers being employed for only 54 days up to late September, the union said.

W. McGillivray B.C. Delegate To Farm Talks

British Columbia will be represented at the annual Federal-Provincial agricultural conference which is to open in Ottawa on Dec. 4.

Agriculture Minister Harry Bowman said W. McGillivray, director of extension and farm service, would attend the meeting. He said it is not yet known who would go to Ottawa with Mr. McGillivray.

For the past two years the minister has gone to the conference, but he does not know whether he will be able to make the trip this year.

The conference will last three days and will be held in the railway committee room of the House of Commons under chairmanship of A. M. Shaw, chairman of the agricultural prices support board.

As in other years, representatives of the federal and provincial departments of agriculture and the Canadian Federation of Agriculture will meet to review the past year and discuss possibilities for the coming one.

Seaman Hurt On Lifeboat

PORT ALBERNI, Oct. 23 — Wesley Oke, a member of the crew of the Bamfield lifeboat, is in West Coast General Hospital suffering severe injuries as a result of an accident while the lifeboat was battling the heaving waters of the Pacific off the west coast of the island.

The boat was struck by a wave and as a result Oke was thrown against a stanchion, receiving severe back injuries.

McNeil Heads Press Gallery

Fred McNeil, legislative correspondent of the Vancouver Daily Province, was elected president of the British Columbia Legislative Press Gallery yesterday during a special meeting.

Lawrie Joslin, representative of The Daily Colonist, was named secretary-treasurer.

Mr. McNeil succeeds A. Leslie Fox, former representative of the Vancouver Sun. Mr. Joslin succeeds Lloyd Baker, former legislative reporter for the Victoria Times. Mr. Fox and Mr. Baker are now respectively managing editor and city editor of the Times.

U.S. Cracks Down On Free Servants

FRANKFURT, Germany, Oct. 23 (AP) — United States high commission workers were told today that after Dec. 1 they will no longer be provided with free personal servants at German expense. This was the latest in a series of Allied moves to cut the occupation costs assessed against the German taxpayers. The British high commission announced that it is cutting its British staff by half—lopping off 1,000 workers by next March.

Navy Relaxes Entry Routine

The Royal Canadian Navy has streamlined its procedure for recruiting ordinary seamen for all branches of the regular force.

The 21 naval divisions which serve as recruiting centres across Canada have been authorized to enroll, on the spot, all applicants for the rank of ordinary seamen who are medically fit and otherwise fill requirements for entry.

Except in certain cases, the previous procedure whereby all applications for enlistment were forwarded to Naval Headquarters for approval has been eliminated.

Applications still requiring headquarters review include those for a rank higher than ordinary seaman and those from persons with previous service.

The new system is expected to accelerate recruiting inasmuch as it will enable a man to be attested in the R.C.N. with an absolute minimum of delay. As before, all new entries will go to H.M.C.S. Cornwallis, Nova Scotia, for basic training.

NEVER TOO OLD

NEWCASTLE, England (CP) — A pupil leaving college after three years' study was presented with a book as tribute to his enthusiasm in mastering the French language. He is George Firstone, a 73-year-old grandfather.

Handlers Of Meat Get Raise

Wage increases of from 18 to 22 cents an hour have been gained by 300 meat market workers in 80 chain stores in Victoria, Vancouver and New Westminster.

The firms are Canada Safeway Ltd., Superior Food Stores and B. and K. Economy Stores.

An increase of 22 cents an hour, [illegible] crease April 21, 1952, is for head meat cutters and journeymen. Head meat cutters' rate is $71.50 a week. The boost will make the journeyman's rate $66.44 for a 44-hour week.

Apprentices and women employees received an 18-cent hourly boost, making pay rates for women employees from $48.73 to $51.04.

Pattern Here For Drug Firm In Australia

A plant similar to that in Saanichton known as Springwood Pharmaceuticals Ltd. will soon be established in Australia.

In charge of the "down under" establishment will be Harry Pickup, who recently arrived here from London, England. In two months he will go to Australia.

A year ago Mr. Pickup introduced to Canada a Swiss discovery known generally as Vitamin F. The product contains unsaturated fatty acids with a purity of 99 per cent and is being used with success in the treatment of skin diseases.

MYSTERIOUS ORIGIN

BRIDGEWATER, N.S. (CP) — Sketching the history of the native Indians of the Micmas tribe, Thomas Raddall, noted author and historian, said here that "only legends remain to tell us of the possible origin of the tribe." While there was a belief they came from the southwest, he said other evidence points to Eskimo extraction.

Salt Spring Island Man Found Guilty On Count of Retaining Stolen Goods

Charles Lumley of Salt Spring Island was found guilty in Assize Court yesterday of retaining [illegible] acquitted on a second count of theft.

The accused was charged with stealing and retaining eight boom chains and two blocks belonging to Salt Spring Island logging operator William Coopsie. The incident took place August 7 and 8 this year.

Witnesses Donald White and Vernon Keith testified that they had been with Lumley when he picked up the logging equipment. [illegible] to the accused and Keith admitted he had been suspicious.

UPHILL TASK

Defense counsel E. M. Levy told the jury he had "an uphill task" before him but said he was emboldened to ask the jury to acquit the accused.

"It is dangerous to convict this man on evidence of accomplices," said Mr. Levy.

He said he was surprised to find the accused charged with theft as well as retaining. The original indictment named retaining possession only in the charge.

He said the three men had together taken the logging equipment while on a drinking spree and asked the jury to be merciful as the accused was married and had five children.

Mr. Justice J. M. Gordon presiding judge, remanded Lumley for sentence at a later date.

Myron M. Cowen To Aid Acheson

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23 (AP). — Myron M. Cowen resigned today as United States ambassador to the Philippines to become special assistant to Secretary of State Acheson. Cowen's first task will be to put into effect the mutual defense treaties which the United States recently signed with the Philippines, Australia and New Zealand.

A cost of living bonus of one cent per hour for one and one-third points advance in the Dominion Government Cost of Living Index has also been offered retroactive to July 1.

A direct quotation from the Board of Conciliation Report:

From statements made to the Board it would appear that the scale of wages paid under these agreements is the highest in Canada in the brewing industry, while other allowances and working conditions are most favorable; these latter include: (a) Closed Shop; (b) Check-off; (c) 5-day 40-hour week; (d) Night differential of 5c per hour, payable between 5 p.m. and 8 a.m.; (e) Nine statutory holidays with pay; (f) Annual vacation—for service over one year, two weeks per year with full pay. For service over 15 years, three weeks with full pay; (g) Social Security—$1,000 life insurance for each employee, Medical Services Association, group sickness and accident coverage, weekly indemnity of $20.00. The cost of this protection is borne equally between the company and the employees; (h) Year-end bonus (payment of which is not however, obligatory by the company).

The social services quoted in the Conciliation Board Report cost the companies 27.24c per man hour in addition to the direct wages offered. This means that the lowest paid worker would receive wages and benefits amounting to $1.8287 per hour.

The facts are that the lowest paid employee of these companies would receive a higher wage than in any comparable category of employment in British Columbia industry or any brewery in Canada.

Business Groups Said Blocking Price Control

OTTAWA, Oct. 23 (CP).—M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, charged tonight that government controls are supported by powerful financial and industrial organizations whose profits have soared since controls were removed.

But some of these organizations, so vehement in their opposition to legislation, were determined to maintain "the price controls which they have exercised over the years," he said.

"They resist any proposals to make illegal price fixing by manufacturers." the C.C.F. leader said in a speech prepared for delivery on the free-time political broadcast, The Nation's Business.

Mr. Coldwell said: "It is not a matter of whether we have controls or not, but whether they shall be exercised through a democratically-elected parliament or by members of the Chamber of Commerce and by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, whose sole interest is the maintenance, indeed the increase of their swollen profits."

Swencisky Heads Hospital Group

VANCOUVER, Oct. 23 (CP).—A. H. J. Swencisky of Vancouver has been re-elected to his third term as president of the B.C. Hospitals Association.

Percy Ward of North Vancouver was also re-elected to his fourth term as secretary-treasurer at the annual convention of the association here.

Vice-presidents are Harvey Taylor, Port Alberni, and J. A. Abrahamson, Revelstoke.

BIG PROJECT

The first pipeline for carrying crude oil from Alberta to the Lakehead, 1,127 miles, was completed in less than 150 days.

Soldiers' Wives Sail From Suez

PORT SAID, Suez Canal Zone, Oct. 23 (Reuters).—British soldiers snatched a few brief hours of happiness here today with tearful wives and children aboard the troopship Empress of Australia.

Because of Egyptian rioting in the zone last week, the families must sail back to Britain tomorrow. They were on their way here to move into regular quarters with their army menfolk.

Gift-laden officers and enlisted men climbed aboard the ship to spend the day with excited wives and confused but happy kids. The soldiers had been brought 50 miles from Ismalia by special convoy for the occasion.

Seven girls went ashore for hasty wedding ceremonies to fiances they sailed to meet.

Letters Home Aid to Morale

OTTAWA, Oct. 23 (CP).—Major-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., (P.C. Nanaimo), asked the Canadian troops in Korea Monday to help maintain morale on the home front by more frequent and regular letter-writing home.

He told the House of Commons he had heard complaints among Canadian families that they were not hearing from their men in Korea.

Unknown Dead In Plane Crash To Be Buried

VANCOUVER, Oct. 23 (CP).—The unidentified and unclaimed dead of the Mount Benson plane crash will be buried in a Nanaimo cemetery on Thursday.

An all-denominational graveside service will be held, Queen Charlotte Airlines officials announced here today.

All occupants of the plane—three crew members and 20 passengers—were killed last Wednesday when the two-motored amphibian crashed into the side of Mount Benson, near Nanaimo while on a flight from Kemano, B.C., to Vancouver.

A number of the bodies have been identified and claimed by relatives who have arranged, or are arranging, private funeral services.

Hunting Horn Of John Peel Up for Sale

LONDON, Oct. 23 (Reuters).—The hunting horn of John Peel, whose exploits with his hounds are still celebrated in the famous song, will be put up for sale shortly in London.

The copper, bugle-shaped horn was kept in the lounge of the Lion Hotel, Guildford, Surrey, and was owned by a brewery company which now has gone into liquidation."

With it is a letter written by Peel's son in 1886 certifying that it is the one used by his father.

John Peel was born in Cumberland in 1777.

"D'ye Ken John Peel" was written by John Graves, the huntsman's friend.

Star-Studded Cast in Courtroom Drama

Spencer Tracy casts a baleful eye on daughter Diana Lynn's insistence that he take his medicine. The scene is from "The People Against O'Hara," M.G.M.'s powerful courtroom drama, starting today at the Royal Theatre. Pat O'Brien and John Hodiak are others in the cast.

Water Colors at Centre By Canadian Modernists

By JOHN KYLE, A.R.C.A.

At the Art Centre on Broughton Street there may be seen a collection of pictures from the Society of Canadian Painters in water colors.

This will be found to be a most interesting and enlightening collection, because it shows the effect which certain modernists like Ivon Hitchens, Matthew Smith, Ben Nicholson, and others are having on the contemporary painters of Canada.

While there are some representational paintings, there are none of the old conservative type that used to be so common in exhibitions of this kind. "The Cement Factory" by Campbell Tinning; "Low Tide" by Peter Haworth; "Still Life" by Carl Schaefer, and "Belle Ause" by Dawson Kennedy; these perhaps come closest to the conservative yet there is nothing of the old fashioned pretty type about them. Indeed Campbell Tinning's work is bold and is painted with dash and assurance. The same may be said about Kennedy's but that of Schaefer's has a more restrained and dainty touch.

SUGGESTIVE

Many of the artists elected to treat their subjects in an extremely suggestive manner, painting the general tone of their picture with a full brush and a very desirable spontaneity, and not trusting to superimposed washes.

On top of this tone very unconvincing line drawings are often found, suggestive of the work of French impressionists, but unfortunately falling much short of their standard.

In this group may be classed David Milne's "Bear Camp," Gordon MacNamara's "Church of San Juan," and "Birds" by J. W. G. MacDonald and Jack Humphrey's "South Wharf with Boats."

A work which does not come under this category however is the "Dance of the Dead Frog" by R. L. Bloore. This painting shows considerable originality in design and rich color arrangement.

COMPLETELY SATISFYING

Another completely satisfying work is "Summer Fallow" by Roloff Beny, a purely abstract treatment in harmonious color, quite unlike his caricatures of Greek art shown here recently.

Near to these hangs a small picture by Jack Shadbolt entitled "Presence in a Field." The idea for this decorative work seems to be derived from seeds and roots found in nature.

There are some extremely provocative paintings on the walls such as "Gala Day" by Jack Hush, "The Yellow Corner" by Ruppell and "An Arrangement of Bottles and Eggs" by Murray Bonnycastle. They are all the work of contemporary water color painters in Canada and as such should be seen in order to appreciate the artistic trend of our time.

Northland Said Great Frontier

QUEBEC, Oct. 23 (CP).—Resources Minister Winters said Monday he believes the potentialities of Canada's northland "are great enough to support the most significant development of our nation's growth since the competition of the transcontinental railroad."

In the north, he said, there are only some 12,000 white persons, the pioneers of Canada's last frontier. But the frontier is ever being pushed back and even the accomplishments of one lifetime gave evidence of this increasing tempo of northland development.

Mr. Winters spoke to the annual conference of the Canadian Association of Real Estate Boards.

In a prepared address, he reviewed the strides Canada has made in developing and harvesting resources and said that in iron ore alone it has been estimated the country will produce eight times her present annual 4,000,000 tons within the next decade.

Earl of Strathmore Collapses at Voting

EDINBURGH, Oct. 23 (Reuters).—The Earl of Strathmore, nephew of Queen Elizabeth, collapsed today when his fellow Scottish peers met in ancient Holyrood Palace to elect 16 of their number to the House of Lords in Britain's new parliament. Election proceedings were adjourned.

Citation Honoring Pats Will Hang in Hospital

The United States government citation which honors the Second Battalion of the P.P.C.L.I. for its bravery in action in the Korean [illegible] will hang in the [illegible] here.

The citation was sent to Canada's Department of National Defense recently and forwarded to this city through efforts of Capt. George Harrison, president of the local P.P.C.L.I. Association.

The document was presented to Capt. Harrison by F. Hinke, local United States consul, at a brief ceremony held at the Veterans' Hospital over the week-end.

Capt. Harrison in turn presented the citation to Major S. H. Okell, district administrator for the Department of Veterans' Affairs.

Capt. Harrison said it is planned to have the document hang in the [illegible] honor at the Veterans Hospital [illegible] erans' Hospital.

Church Project Brings in $200

Two hundred dollars was raised toward the building of a new Sunday school by members of St. John's Church, Colwood, at a recent harvest supper.

More than 200 children and their parents attended.

Moving pictures were shown by E. Emery.

France Rejects Soviet Charges

PARIS, Oct. 23 (INS).—A French foreign office spokesman strongly rejected Soviet charges today and accused Russia of giving the "greatest support" to the Hitler war machine.

Russia in two notes Sept. 11 and Oct. 19 accused France of violating the Franco-Soviet treaty in agreeing to rearmament of West Germany. Moscow also attacked France for its part in the pre-war Munich settlement.

In an unusually strong statement, the foreign office spokesman in Paris charged that from the beginning of the Second World War until June 21, 1941, on the eve of the German attack on Russia, the Soviet regime aided Hitler.
